SENATORS NOW EXPECT DRAFT BILL PASSAGE

Predict 10-Vote Margin In Roll Call Scheduled For Next Week.

SEEK DEBATE LIMIT

Barkley Says President's Opinion Should Hasten Action on Measure.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration strategists predicted today that the senate would approve the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill next week by a margin of at least 10 votes and in a form calling for immediate conscription.

These leaders also said a recheck of their polls, following President Roosevelt's call for speedy enactment of a selective service law that would become effective at once, indicated that a substitute bill by Sen. Maloney (D., Conn.) to delay the draft until Jan. 1, faced defeat by a margin of from two to four votes.

The senate gave up its usual Saturday holiday to continue debate on the conscription measure, and a final vote on the bill "sometime next week," was predicted.

Sen. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader, told reporters he had hope of getting the senate to agree to a limitation of debate and expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt's expression should hasten action.

On the other hand, Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), an opponent of conscription, said he thought no attempt would be made to cut off debate "on a matter of this importance."

The president said yesterday that to put off the actual drafting of men might delay the whole defense program a year or two and he remarked that congress had been considering the matter since June 20 and still was talking.

Opponents of conscription conceded that Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that he was personally and absolutely opposed to postponement of compulsory military training was likely to swing the balance against Maloney's proposal to delay conscription until a system of voluntary one-year enlistments could be tried.

(Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) told reporters that it seemed obvious to him that administration "pressure" would be exerted to get the bill through in its present form.

TWO INJURED

Man, Wife Taken to Hospital After 3-Way Collision.

A man and his wife, en route to Dayton from Medina, were rushed to Mansfield General hospital following a three-car accident at the intersection of East Second and South Adams streets shortly before noon today.

John Albert Wyman, 29, of Medina was said by the police to have received lacerations of face, skull and ear and a possible back fracture. Helen Wyman, 27, his wife was treated for minor bruises. Others involved in the acridcnt were unhurt.

According to police, Wyman's car collided with an automobile driven by C. A. Atwell, 221 Sturges avenue, and another car driven by Irven Crider, R. D. 4 Mansfield, and turned over in the street.

BOY WOUNDED

Mother Accidentally Shoots 3-Year-Old Son.

COLUMBUS — (NS) — Three-year-old Ralph Wells, of near Chillicothe, was near death today in University hospital from a bullet wound in his abdomen inflicted accidentally by his mother.

The boy found a small gun in an automobile at his home and carried it to his mother. Mrs. Wells pulled the trigger while handling it, wounding the boy, police said.

HURT WHEN CAR AND TRUCK MEET

Driver Escapes With Cuts and Bruises as Machine Burns After Collision.

Louis Doerr, 49 Mendota street, escaped with cuts on his face and hands last night when his car crashed into the rear of a truck parked on route 30 five miles east of Mansfield and burned.

Doerr was still in General hospital today, but his injuries were not believed serious.

Deputy Sheriffs J. R. Hetler and G. C. Humphrey who investigated the accident, said Doerr's car apparently hit the rear of a truck that had stopped behind another truck.

Humphrey said both trucks were gone when they arrived at the scene about 11 p. m. and Doerr had been taken to the hospital. Officers did not learn the names of the truck drivers.

Doerr was able to get out of the car before flames enveloped it. The car was badly damaged in the crash before it burned. The accident occurred shortly after 10:30 p. m., it was believed.

The burning automobile held up traffic and there were long lines of cars on both sides of the accident scene.

Joint Defense Board Members Get Instruction

WASHINGTON —(NS)— American members of the joint defense board with Canada receive final instructions today at a White House conference with President Roosevelt preliminary to their departure for Ottawa and the initial meeting Monday with the Canadian experts.

Including Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, a World war flier, the American section was assembling in the presidential study at noon.

Officials meanwhile continued tight-lipped silence on the status of Great Britain's negotiations for acquisition of fifty or more over-age American destroyers.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson denied flatly, however, that he had either been asked for an opinion on legality of such a transfer or had rendered one.

BUSINESS BAN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state today withheld permission for the Standard Life Insurance company of Indianapolis to do business in Ohio until all stock purchases were completed in cash. Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert said purchasers paid $237,000 for $500,000 worth of stock, giving promissory notes for the balance.

DREDGING OF CREEK OK'D TO AVERT FLOODS

City, County and Conservancy Board Approve Six-Mile Rocky Fork Job.

SET COST AT $50,000

Officials to Make Survey of Stream Next Week; Cost To Be Assessed.

The Mansfield Conservancy board and city and county officials yesterday took the first step to set up a project for dredging six miles of Rocky Fork creek in the Mansfield area to prevent the flooding of industrial plants and homes in the northern part of the city.

Meeting at the courthouse with representatives of industrial firms and city and county officials, the Conservancy board agreed to go ahead with the work and make an inspection of the creek channel next Thursday.

Following the inspection trip, the board will submit a financing plan to Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who has jurisdiction over the Mansfield Conservancy district.

C. L. Hartenfels, member of the board, said it is likely that the area drained by the stream will be zoned and that home owners and manufacturing firms will be assessed according to the benefit they will receive from the flood control work.

County commissioners and city officials agreed to finance a preliminary engineering survey so that an estimate of the cost of the work can be made. It is expected that the cost will be at least $50,000.

Although the Conservancy district will have charge of the work, it cannot use its funds to finanace the project, Judge Huston said. The levy now being collected in Mansfield and parts of Madison township must go to retire bonds issued several years ago by the district, he ruled.

The dredging proposal calls for dredging of the creek channel from Longview avenue to the Madison-Mifflin township line east of the city. It was pointed out at yesterday's meeting that rubbish and old logs and stumps have been dumped into the creek in times of high water and have gradually clogged the channel until the entire northern part of the city is threatened after hard rains. The creek has not been dredged for 20 years.

3 HOMES LOOTED

Radio, Money, Food Reported Stolen From Residences.

Police today were investigating three new house burglaries, latest in a series of robberies reported during the past six weeks.

Chase Southworth, 637 Bowman street, told police his residence was entered and a camera, watch and electric iron, valued at $56 taken. Officers said the thief entered the house with a pass key, which was used on a kitchen door.

At the residence of John Marion, 651 Bowman street, a screen was removed from a window and the residence ransacked. Marion said $4.50 in change was taken and a quart of milk was missing from the refrigerator.

Mrs. Albert Stiner, 289 East Third street, reported the theft of 43 cans of fruit and 23 pints of jelly from a house at 91 Ashland avenue, from which she had just moved.

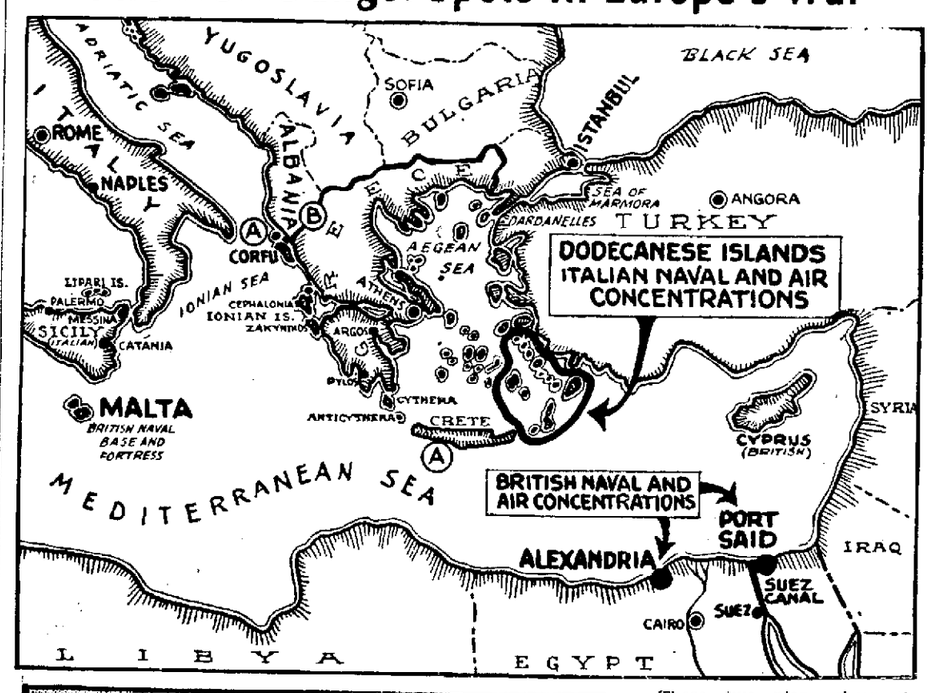
Two New Danger Spots In Europe's War



These two maps show the newest danger spots in the European war. British and Italian warships were reported in the vicinity of Crete, and Italy maintained pressure on Greece over alleged atrocities in Albania. Bottom maps show territory ceded by Rumania to Bulgaria. Hungary is pressing claims on Rumania for the return of Transylvania, but negotiations broke down today, leaving the Balkan situation more delicate than ever.

70 Officers Join In Search For 5 Youths In Stolen Car

Police today were still looking for five unidentified young men who abandoned a stolen car at the edge of Cardington last night and took out on foot across the fields.

The hunt, which began in the early evening yesterday, continued until daylight this morning, with more than 70 state, county, and local officers combing the woods and fields in the vicinity of Cardington.

The car, according to the Mansfield highway patrolmen, was first spotted by Highway Patrolman W. P. Busch of Marion, who recognized it as a stolen car as he was driving through the streets of Cardington.

Accompanied by the Cardington marshal, Patrolman Busch gave chase to the car through the streets of Cardington. A mile south of Cardington, the five youths abandoned the car and scattered across the fields.

Meanwhile, the Mansfield Highway patrol had received a call from Mt. Gilead that the same car had failed to pay for gasoline purchased at a station there.

Patrolmen W. C. Smith and J. A. Gosling of the Mansfield station proceeded to Mt. Gilead, where they picked up the trail of the car. They traced the stolen automobile to Cardington where they joined Patrolman Busch and the Cardington marshal.

A call was sent out for more help and throughout the night police from the surrounding areas arrived at Cardington to join in the search, the Mansfield patrolmen said.

The car was stolen from near Circleville, Aug. 23, and is now in the hands of Cardington officials. The five youths were still at liberty at noon today, highway patrolmen said.

SET UP HIGHWAY RELOCATING JOB

Five Miles of Route 95 Near Pleasant Hill Dam to Be Moved In Spring.

The state highway department next spring will undertake a major construction project in Richland county, the job of relocating nearly five miles of state route 95 in the vicinity of Pleasant Hill dam.

Highway officials in Columbus today announced that the state and war department had agreed on a $2,077,000 project, embracing more than 27 miles of road relocations in the Muskingum conservancy district, in line with the national defense and flood control programs.

Murray D. Shaffer, division highway engineer at Ashland said the work to be done in Richland and Ashland county included the relocation of route 95 between Newville and Perrysville.

The project, involving the construction of a new concrete highway some distance north of the present road and outside the flood area, calls for the expenditure of approximately $200,000, Shaffer said.

He said plans for the project were about 60 per cent completed and that the job would be started next spring.

Other road relocations will be made in Noble, Carroll, Tuscarawas, Stark, Harrison and Coshocton counties, also part of the conservancy district.

Dispatches from Columbus reported that $1,100,000 of the total project would come from the federal government while the remaining $977,000 has already been appropriated by the state and federal highway aid divisions.

Trotsky Assailant Says Victim Wanted Stalin Killed.

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Accusations leveled at Leon Trotsky by his confessed slayer, who said Trotsky had ordered him to go to Russia and "organize the assassination of Joseph Stalin and other Soviet leaders," drew expressions of skepticism today from Mexican officials.

Police said the accusation was contained in a note which Frank Jackson, mysterious foreigner ample before he attacked Trotsky with a pickaxe last Tuesday in the latter's closely-guarded Coyoacan home.

Big Guns Open Fire on Dover

Early Morning Air Raid Alarm Catches Millions of Londoners on Way to Work; Germans Strike Inland.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—All-clear signals sounded in London one hour and 43 minutes after an air raid alarm today, London's second in a few hours.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — The thunder of gunfire and bombs from the direction of the Thames estuary was heard in London this afternoon during a second air raid alarm of a day marked by a double-barreled German assault by new waves of massed bombers and cross-channel, long-range guns.

(By United Press)

LONDON—German planes, renewing big scale attacks on southeast and south England, swept over the coast in waves today and penetrated so close to London that they caused an air raid alarm in the metropolitan area during the morning rush hour.

German big guns, firing from across the English channel, opened up on the Dover area as German planes attacked.

Hardly had the first shell struck when British long range naval guns, emplaced along the coast for the long threatened German invasion, began blasting tons of shells into the German gun positions. They had been spotted when, in bright daylight, they had fired on a British ship convoy in the channel Thursday.

There were unofficial reports that at one coast town British fighter planes had shot down six out of 28 German planes which crossed the coast.

Over land and out at sea, where they raced when warned by coastal observers that enemy planes were coming, the British fighters engaged the Germans in furious air battles.

Scores of German planes, it was indicated, were trying to force their way through the anti-aircraft gun and fighter plane screen to reach inland England.

A report that a strong formation of German planes was crossing the southeast coast brought London an air raid alarm this morning as millions of people were on the way to work.

Between 150 and 200 German planes had managed to cross the coast by early afternoon, it was estimated, and more came later. It was evident that today the Germans had both coastal and inland objectives.

Reports said that the Midlands raiders met a terrific barrage of shrapnel and incendiary shells.

Buses, subway trains and pedestrians continued on their way unperturbed and air raid shelters in central London were almost empty.

COLLAPSE: Transylvanian Conference Ends In Failure

BULLETIN

BUDAPEST—(AP)—Hungary took new defensive measures today, calling up army reservists overnight as the conference with Rumania over Transylvania ended in failure.

TURNU-SEVERIN, Rumania—(AP)—The Hungarian-Rumanian conference over Transylvania collapsed today.

The two delegations, admitting failure to find a common ground for continuing the negotiations, prepared to depart for Bucharest and Budapest.

The collapse of the Axis-inspired attempt to arrive at a friendly settlement of Hungary's claims to the 35,000 square mile province of Transylvania failed to give a satisfactory reply to a Hungarian demand for some concrete territorial concessions.

The Hungarians had demanded approximately two-thirds of the province. The Rumanians refused and offered to exchange minority populations instead.

The fact that several hundred thousand Hungarians live in Transylvania has been the focal point of the long Hungarian campaign for the reutrn of the province.

Hungarian delegates were glum of expression as they left the hall where intermittent conferences had been in session for ten days. They hastened immediately to their Danube steamer to return to Budapest.

The Rumanian delegates stayed to draft an official explanation of the conference failure.

Stiffening of Rumania's attitude toward the negotiations was seen in the calling up of army reserves, the appointment of a new chief and vice chief of the Rumanian general staff, and the offer of five seats in the government to the

RAIDS: Italians Say Fliers Bomb British In North Africa

(By International News Service)

ROME—Heavy Italian air raids on British positions in north Africa were announced today by the Rome military bulletin, which stated:

"In north Africa on the night of Aug. 23 violent and prolonged aerial bombings of the airfield at Sidibarrani, the enemy position at Mersamatruh and the naval base at Alexandria were carried out, everywhere with notable effects. Large fires were started.

"On Aug. 22 in the Gulf of Rombe an enemy torpedo aviation formation attacked and hit with a torpedo one of our submarines. A large part of the crew was saved and the submarine was recovered. An enemy plane was brought down.

"In east Africa our air formations carried out an efficacious bombing raid on the airport at Khartoum, causing considerable destruction and large fires.

"The enemy air raided Massawa, Berbera and Dobel without causing casualties or damage."

Another special military bulletin stated:

"Seven Italian brigades in the course of Somaliland operations captured hundreds of motorized units, light and heavy machine guns, many tanks and cannon and quantities of munitions and food.

"Prisoners captured include several hundred regulars and more than 1,000 Somalilanders who were used to protect the British withdrawal and then were abandoned."

Upcoming In Tomorrow's N-J

IT'S going to be quite a job—registering and fingerprinting every alien in Mansfield and vicinity and any visiting alien who wants to register here. But that's what the U. S. government has ordered, and Postmaster Herman E. Homberger and his staff are ready for the task. George Sattler tells you about it in the Sunday edition of The News-Journal.

With Pictures, Too.

Not only are there photographs of the alien registration board but also of:

The famed 37th division, A. E. F., in action.

Workmen getting building and equipment in shape for the opening of school Sept. 4.

Telephones of yesterday and tomorrow—(and an interesting interview with one of Mansfield's first telephone operators by Jane Williams).

A petit jury posed on the courthouse steps before the turn of the century and a boys' club which included John Bissman and Henry G. Brunner among its starchily posed members.

Hygienic Marriage.

In his feature story in tomorrow's edition, Virgil A. Stanfield doesn't advocate hygienic marriages among people but he tells you how that sort of "wedding" of corn stocks has given Richland county a new type of farm industry.

Besides his political column, Robert E. Rogers scours through newspapers of Civil war days to bring you some entertaining items.

At Home and Abroad.

The battle for Britain goes on, and so does The News-Journal's complete coverage of events on foreign battle fronts and at home. In the Sunday edition you will meet the new supervisor at the Richland Tuberculosis sanatorium.

You will also read a bit of highly interesting news about the first play to be given by the Community Players this season.

Too, there are the colored comics, women's page and society features, sports, columnists, cross quiz puzzle and another short story.

Two Children Drowned In Bathtub, Mother Detained

FATHER FINDS SMALL BODIES, SUICIDE NOTE

Deranged Woman Discovered Wandering Dazed In Nearby Park.

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON — A 31-year-old mother was detained under guard in a hospital here today. Detective Capt. O. L. Kincaid said for investigation into the drowning of her two small children "under mysterious circumstances" in a bathtub of her home.

The victims were Lela Mae, a two-week-old baby, and Walter Weyrauch, jr., age 7 years. Their bodies were discovered by Weyrauch, sr., a druggist, when he returned home from work last night.

Directed by a note, members of the family found Mrs. Lucille Weyrauch, mother of the children, wandering "in a dazed condition," in a park near their home a short time after the tragedy was discovered, Kincaid reported.

Kincaid disclosed the contents of the note which he said Weyrauch, sr., found on a table in their home, indicating the young mother intended to take her own life and giving a possible explanation of the death of her children. It read:

"Walt,

"They'll find me in the water at Island park. I couldn't die and leave the children. At least they'll never suffer.

"(Signed) Lou."

Kincaid said attempts would be made to question Mrs. Weyrauch today. She was in a coma when taken to the hospital and her talking was unintelligible, the officer reported.

Weyrauch, sr. told police that he had gone home for a short time about 3 p. m., yesterday and his wife had asked him to call Walter, jr., into the house stating that she "wanted to give him a bath."

Acting Coroner A. P. McDonald said the children had been dead about an hour when discovered by the father.

Blame Downdraft For Army Bomber Crash In Storm

DENVER—(AP)—Civil authorities tentatively blamed "terrific downdraft" today for the crash of an army bomber that carried nine men to death as army authorities virtually eliminated the possibility lightning or a bomb explosion might have caused the tragedy.

The plane, a B-18-A Douglas medium bomber, crashed in an electrical storm Thursday night.

Major Leo H. Dawson, operations officer at Lowry field, said eight or nine possible explanations were under study. He said condition of the electrical wiring eliminated the lightning theory and fifteen unexploded bombs were found in the wreckage. They were loaded with only enough powder to show a puff of smoke when striking ground targets.

Coroner Jay H. Hatch said he believed a downdraft was to blame.

Up and Down THE STREET

When Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mehock come home from their summer vacation at Cold Springs, Ind. ask them about the day they went out to look for minnows and found instead, a Mansfield school teacher, Miss Harriet Roth, teacher at Carpenter school, was a guest at the Mehock cottage and had taken a car to go on an errand. Later the Mehocks went out to get minnows, preparatory to a fishing trip to the lake and along the highway, they came upon a gal and a car that wouldn't go. The girl was Miss Roth. There's more to the story, but you'll have to ask Harry and Bee about it when they get back.

It may be a month until fall arrives officially, but it was here today so far as Tony Moritz, courthouse custodian is concerned. Tony turned on the heat at the county jail because the prisoners complained about the cold. The deputy sheriffs who make their headquarters in the jail office welcomed the warm radiators too, but Tony said he was just getting the heating system "in shape for winter."

GERMAN PLANES AND BIG GUNS RENEW ATTACK

Raiders Sweep Over Britain In Waves, Hitting Coast And Inland Points.

dropped three bombs on the southeast outskirts of London late last night. The bombs fell in open ground and did little damage. Searchlights went into action but there was no anti-aircraft gun fire.

It was reported without confirmation that parachutes were dropped by German planes over the Midlands in raids early today.

There was no indication whether, if parachutes were dropped, they contained parachute troops or, like those dropped over several areas recently, were empty and intended to spread terror.

Two bombs fell on a Welsh town early this morning, nearly wrecked four working class homes and caused wounds to some of the people in them.

It was reported that the London air raid alarm came when the coastal observer corps reported a big German air fleet headed toward the coast, apparently seeking to penetrate the anti-aircraft barrage and possibly to bomb London.

British fighter planes were believed to have been patroling the southeast coast thickly at the time. Observers saw Spitfire planes racing out to sea at one point during the alarm period. No German planes were seen here and it was indicated that the Germans were driven back.

Three great explosions, believed to have been caused by artillery shells fired from the French coast, shook the Dover area at 10 a. m. (4 a. m. EST). Sirens warned the public to take shelter. No planes could be seen or heard.

During the Midlands raid, German planes dropped between 200 and 300 incendiary bombs in one area. High explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped near a town. Fire brigades dealt with numerous fires. There was some property damage but no casualties were reported.

Several persons were killed and some wounded when a single German plane, sweeping from the clouds, bombed the main street of a southeast coast town Friday night and then machine gunned people on a bathing beach nearby. A British fighter plane forced it down.

German planes also visited the Isle of Wight.

German bombers flew singly over a southwest town at intervals until searchlights picked them up and anti-aircraft guns drove them off.

There were some casualties, including fatal ones, in a southwest coast town and bombs were dropped without casualties on four southwestern villages.

The Daily Mail asserted that as the result of the German shelling from the French coast Thursday of a British channel coast convoy, British gunnery experts had taken exact bearings and had identified gun emplacements at Calais, Cape Griz Nez, Audembert and St. Inglevert. Retorting to this fire, the Daily Mail said, British batteries scored hits on two highly important targets the nature of which could not be disclosed, while another shell smashed a dock at Calais.

A British air ministry communique detailing operations of Thursday night and yesterday morning reported fires and other damage at airports and other objectives in a great arc between central France, by way of St. Nazaire on the coast and Holland to western Germany.

German Claim Armed Ship Sunk

BERLIN —(U.P.)— The high command claimed today to have sunk the armed British merchant ship Turakina, 8,706 tons, in Australian waters.

The high command said submarines have sunk more than 100,000 tons of British shipping during the past eight days. No clue was given as to how the Turakina was attacked, the communique saying merely that it had been sunk by German naval forces operating in Australian waters.

One submarine was credited with sinking 15,000 tons of British shipping and another was said to have destroyed the British merchantmen Severnleigh, 5,242 tons, the Brockwood, 5,100 tons and a ship of 4,000 tons. It was claimed that a third submarine torpedoed a merchant ship of 11,000 tons.

Describing operations of the German air force yesterday and last night the high command said that German planes attacked throughout southern England and the Midlands and bombed ports, dockyards, armed factories and military camps.

The communique added that a number of British planes dropped bombs on western Germany during the night "without causing damage worth mentioning."

Authorized German quarters told of today's renewed German air raids on the British Isles.

The official German news agency D. N. B. said that German planes which attacked objectives in County Kent this morning consisted of "a large formation of numerous planes" flying in several waves of at least 20 each.

D. N. B. said that German planes flew over the "narrowest point" in the English channel (the Straits of Dover) accompanied by a large number of pursuit and destroyer planes.

D. N. B. said that German bases on the channel coast reported in midafternoon that 12 British planes had been shot down and that there had been no German losses.

Bombs were dropped at a number of points over Kent county and airplane battles were in progress, the informants said.

Nazi quarters had asserted that only bad weather was keeping grounded the larger part of the German air fleet detailed to bomb Great Britain and had commented:

"The weather can not remain this way for ever. We do not need long to sink our teeth into England. Sooner or later between now and the end of September there will be a good weather period long enough for us to get a strangle hold on Britain. Once we get it there will be no prying us loose.

"It is wrong to imagine that the present unusually foul weather has tangled up the high command's plans. Soldiers are professional pessimists and undoubtedly have provided for the present contingency."

16 Killed During Raids On Holland

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands — (U.P.)—At least 16 persons were killed in Holland and 23 wounded as the result of British air raids yesterday, a check showed today. Ten persons were killed at Rotterdam and six at Hengelo. The casualties included those from anti-aircraft gunfire.

Seek Recruits for Army Mechanized Division

If you join this division of the army you don't have to walk—it's entirely mechanized. Pictured here in their scout car are (left to right) Radio Operator Richard S. Oney, Sergt. James F. Hedges and Corp. James I. Williams, members of a recruiting party who came to Mansfield Thursday and will remain through Sunday, seeking enlistments in their unit, which is the 68th Field Artillery, now stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

MANSFIELD VETS LEAVE FOR STATE CONVENTION AT TOLEDO

Mansfield legionnaires and members of the 40 et 8 left this morning for Toledo to attend the annual state convention which is being held in that city for four days, starting Monday.

Heading the deelgation is Commander R. M. James of McVey Post. R. B. Gardner, state commander of the Legion, left yesterday for the convention city. About 20,000 veterans are expected to attend.

Among the veterans from this city who left today or plan to leave early in the morning are C. B. Harris, J. Kent Oberlin, Glenn Bierly, Ralph Hughes, M. Earl Saltzgaber, Robert W. Jones, F. Thane Shaw, G. C. Kahl, H. B. Emmer, C. G. Flood, W. E. Bradford, Hollis Moorhead and members of the drum and bugle corps. The first five, with Commander James, are the official delegates from McVey Post.

The Commander's banquet will be held at 6:30 p. m. today at Hotel Secor and the annual 40 et 8 parade is scheduled for 8:30, followed by the jamboree and initiation at Moose Temple.

After church services Sunday morning the first convention business session will be held and at 1:30 p. m. the drum corps competing in the annual contests will hold their preliminaries at Libbey stadium. Both the Legion auxiliary and the 40 et 8 will hold business sessions Sunday afternoon, and the drum corps finals are scheduled for 8 p. m.

The opening feature on Monday is a golf tournament at 8 a. m. with a business session at 9. The Sons of Liberty drum corps competitions wil be held at 12:30 and the annual Legion parade will be staged at 4:30 p. m.

Election of officers on Tuesday brings the convention to a close. Unopposed for state commander to succeed Gardner is Ralph Stone of Conneaut.

Distinguished guests invited by State Commander R. B. Gardner include Gov. John W. Bricker, Bennet Chapel of the national association of manufacturers and assistant to the president of the American Rolling Mill company of Middletown; O. K. Armstrong of Springfield, Mo., member of the Legion foreign relations committee; and the Ohio commanders of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, disabled American veterans of the World war, Veterans of Foreign Wars and commanders of Legion departments of eight neighboring states.

SERVICES SET

Benjamin Conklin, 72, to Be Buried Monday.

SHELBY—Funeral services for Benjamin Franklin Conklin, 72, retired Ohio Seamless Tube company employe, who died Friday at the home, 176 North Broadway avenue, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the home with Rev. R. Taffle Crowe, pastor of First Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be made in Fitchville cemetery.

Born at Fitchville on Dec. 25, 1867, Mr. Conklin had lived in Shelby for 36 years and had been employed at Ohio Seamless Tube company until 1932.

Surviving are his wife, Jenny; and one son, Arthur, both of Shelby.

WANTS CIRCLE

Sawyer Seeks Supreme Court Action on Ballot.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The state supreme court will be asked to decide whether the national ballot form for the Nov. 5 election prepared by Secretary of State George Neffner is legal, Democratic national Committeeman Charles Sawyer declared today.

He feels that the absence of the customary circle from beneath party emblem on the national ticket will confuse voters.

Sawyer sent letters to 500 Democratic party leaders and public officials, soliciting their views on whether confusion will result unless the circle is included.

CHILD STRICKEN

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Wanda Jane Root, 15, of Middletown, lay in critical condition in a general hospital respirator today after being stricken with infantile paralysis.

STILL LIKE FALL

Mercury Drops to 38; Little Heat In Prospect.

Mansfield got another taste of fall weather last night as the mercury dropped to 38 degrees, only six above freezing.

The weatherman said it will be cool over the week-end with a possibility of slightly warmer weather by Sunday afternoon.

It was colder in New York state than in Ohio, with readings of 26 and 28 degrees reported at Wanakena and Dexter airport, in the northern part of the state.

The temperature had climbed to 66 at noon today in Mansfield, and the 24-hour average was 54, 15 degrees below normal. Yesterday's high was 70.

TORPEDOED SHIP LIMPS TO PORT

Dutch Steamer Attacked On Way To England By Submarine.

LONDON—(INS)—With a large hole in its hull, the Dutch steamer Kermes arrived in Lisbon harbor today after being attacked by a submarine, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Portuguese capital.

The report said the master of the vessel said his ship was torpedoed 300 miles off the Portuguese coast while en route to England.

(Editor's note: The Kermes is not listed in Lloyd's register of shipping.)

MUDDY WATER NOT POWERFUL

Bomb Squad Not Needed To Test This Jug.

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— A gallon thermos jug in a vacant lot beside an electrical equipment factory looked suspicious to workmen so they called the police bomb squad.

an emergency car rolled up with sandbags, an X-ray machine and other special equipment. It was too late.

Detective Sergeant Edward Rouls already had found that the jug contained muddy water—by simply taking the lid off.

TRANSYLVANIA PARLEY FAILS

Hungary and Rumania Unable To Agree on Terms of Province Change.

anti-revisionist group of Juliu Maniu, the peasant party leader.

The army appointees were understood to oppose any cession of Transylvanian territory.

Maniu, however, was understood to have rejected the proffered cabinet posts unless King Carol's new totalitarian party is dissolved.

At Craiova, meanwhile, where Rumanians are negotiating with Bulgarians over southern Dobruja it was reported the Rumanians have proposed to cede all of the town of Silistra, on the Danube, provided Bulgaria creates a free zone at the port of Balcic, on the Black sea, for Rumania, with an international highway leading from it to the Rumanian sea port of Constanta.

A Hungarian spokesman said his country had asked for about two-thirds of Transylvania's 35,000 square miles.

The differences of viewpoints brought a recess in negotiations earlier in the week, and most observers looked for an "agreement to disagree" unless a compromise on principles for approach to the problem could be reached quickly.

LOWEST BID

Mansfield Firm Goes Below Estimate on Road Jobs.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company was the lowest bidder on one of 12 road improvement projects estimated by the state highway department to cost $429,000, Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said today.

The Mansfield firm submitted a price of $38,497 for the re-surfacing of approximately six miles of state route 269 in Huron, Sandusky and Seneca counties. The proposal was about $9,000 under the state's estimate of $47,500, dispatches said.

Fred L. Krueger of Galion submitted a low bid of $6,728 for two miles of roadside improvement on U. S. route 30 in Van Wert. The state estimated the project at $8,350.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Those who have thrilled to the tale of TREASURE ISLAND or of KIDNAPPED, and those who remember their favorite poems from the CHILD'S GARDEN OF VERSES will be interested in the two new books about the author who wrote these books. We have often heard of the frail little boy who spent so much of his childhood in bed but few of us knew how dearly he loved to play pranks or to imagine adventures, even of the gruesome sort.

Both of the new books tell the story of Robert Louis Stevenson's whole life. In THE TREASURE HUNTER there is perhaps a clearer picture of the incidents as they occur. It describes Stevenson as a true adventurer always hampered by ill health. In ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, TELLER OF TALES we learn how and why he wrote so many fine stories. The beauties he found in his travels, especially among the South Sea Islands, are written here as well as the story of the devoted care which his wife gave him during his many illnesses.

WAGE BOOSTS

CHICAGO — (AP) — Wage increases were granted in a new contract between the AFL United Wallpaper Craftsmen and Workers of North America and representatives of the industry, affecting 6,000 employes in mills in Ohio and five other states, Joseph M. Jacobs, union general counsel, reported today.

TELLS STORY OF NEAR EASTERN TRAGEDY SUNDAY

Oberlin Man, Assyrian Native, To Speak at Lutheran Church Tomorrow.

M. Malik Verda of Oberlin, a native of Assyria and a member of a noble family of Maliks who ruled for five centuries in the hills of Assyria prior to the World war, will lecture at the First Lutheran church Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

The speaker will give his thrilling story of the Christian tragedy in the near east entitled "By the Waters of Babylon." Verda was born on the borderline between Assyria and Turkey and was educated at Nineveh, the ancient capital of Assyria on the Tigres river.

In addition to his speaking, Verda will sing several songs in Arabic. He will appear in the native costume of his country.

Rev. O. C. Goerner's sermon for the morning service will be "Remembering to Thank."

Men of the church and Sunday school will hold their annual corn roast Saturday Aug. 31 at Spiker's Grove, Marion avenue road.

The Earnest Workers will meet on Monday, Aug. 26, 2 p. m., at the Parish house. Senior Luther league will meet Sunday at 6:30 p. m., at the church, with Florence Linsemayer as leader. The topic will be "Prognosticating the Future of the Church."

GUEST SOLOIST

Miss Wanda Hess to Sing at St. John's Tomorrow.

Miss Wanda Hess, mezzo soprano, will be guest vocalist at the St. John's Evangelical and Reform church Sunday at the 10 a. m. service.

Her selection will be "Prayer" by Guion. Mrs. Helen Huston, organist, will accompany her. Mrs. Huston will play for her prelude "Prayer," by Franz Schubert and "Slumber Son" by Seely for her offertory.

Rev. Paul H. Saleste will preach on "Jesus Talks About Food." There will be a German sermon at 11 a. m.

OPENS SEPT. 3

Ontario Schools to Start Off With Full Day of Work.

L. C. Stengel, superintendent of the Ontario schools, announced today that the Ontario schools would open Tuesday, Sept. 3, for a full-day session.

The school cafeteria, he said, would also be open for the first day of school.

Stengel said that from now until school starts he would be at the school during the day and from 7 to 8 in the evening. He will sell supplies during that time and will also be available for student conferences.

Soloist From New York to Sing at Sunday Services

Arnold Lehnhart, former Mansfielder, now soloist at The Church of the Holy Communion, New York, will be the guest soloist at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning at the 10:30 service.

Accompanied by Kathryn Ballett Witter, he will sing "The Lord Is My Shepherd," by Smart. A quartet, composed of Mrs. Witter, Mrs. C. O. Anglin, Lehnhart, and Paul Watts will also present the anthem, "Fear Not, O Israel" by Spicker.

Reports will be given during the Sunday school hour at 9:15 a. m. by Delegates Mrs. J. R. Turner, Jean Turner, Kathryn Wood and Harold Hoover, jr., who attended the Wooster summer conference.

Rev. David N. Roller's sermon subject will be "Religion and Our Personal Needs" at the 10:30 a. m. service.

'MIND' SUBJECT FOR SCIENTISTS

"MIND" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 25, 1940.

The Golden Text is: "Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his: . . . he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding" (Daniel 2:20,21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God spake all these words, saying . . . I am the Lord thy God which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. . . . Thou shalt have no other gods before me" (Exodus 20:1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." (Exodus xx 3).

$25,000 FIRE.

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Fire damage to the Universal Sewer Pipe company's drying and moulding rooms at nearby Diamond was estimated at a $25,000 by plant officials today. Firemen from Youngstown Warner Alliance and other towns extinguished the blaze.

Intemperance and Movies Condemned By Church Group

AKRON—(AP)—Resolutions condemning motion pictures, "increasing intemperance, indiscriminate relief" and appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican were before the Ohio Evangelical church conference for action today.

They were presented by the conference committee on Christian social action.

Rev. H. L. Zachman of Canton, head of the committee, charged the movies have "degenerated into commercialism" and constitute "one of the greatest religious menaces."

The group urged cooperation with the Anti-Saloon League in combating "the ever increasing spirit of intemperance."

It attacked "encouragement on separation of church and state" in the appointment of a United States ambassador to the Vatican.

The conference continues through Sunday when new ministers will be ordained.

MODERATOR TO PREACH BAPTIST SERMON SUNDAY

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—neither too slow nor too fast—and observe those yellow lines.

Just when an All-Ohio world series seems assured the Indians set out to keep it uncertain.

Survey item—"More men beat their wives in July than in any other month"—then comes August, with its family reunions.

Congress Delaying Defense Plans

EFFORTS now being made in congress to postpone selective military training until next year must be construed as meaning that congressmen and senators who favor delay are not convinced there is a real need to build up the defenses of this country in anticipation of an attack which others believe may be imminent.

President Roosevelt, upon whom heavy responsibility rests as commander in chief of United States military forces, expressed himself yesterday as being strongly opposed to postponement of compulsory military training until next year and regards this as a dangerous delay in the whole defense program.

What is needed immediately, the president said, is the manpower to learn the use of modern fighting equipment now in readiness, but which is powerless unless men are trained to operate it.

Senate and house have reached agreement on the bill to authorize the president to call the national guard and army reserves for a year's service but this does not supply the need for a sufficient number of trained men to meet defense requirements in the event of attempted invasion by a foreign power, or combination of powers.

The not remote possibility of Great Britain's seat of government being temporarily driven from the British Isles, with likelihood of Canada being chosen as a new base from which to carry on the war against Nazi Germany, places the United States in position of having the conflict brought to its very doors, with an inescapable responsibility to join with Canada in defense against European aggression on this continent.

It is also safe to assume that President Roosevelt is in possession of confidential diplomatic information as to the gravity of present international conditions, which cannot now be made public but which has influenced his determined efforts to start a selective training program as quickly as possible.

Whatever the future may hold for the United States, the best assurance of continued peace lies in readiness to successfully combat any attack that may be made upon it—and selective military training of several million young men is an essential part of preparedness.

Totalitarian Violence

FEARS and revolutionary plotting which may lie behind the slaying of Leon Trotsky in Mexico are shrouded in darkness and may never come to light. He had feared assassination all through his long exile. Other attempts had been made on his life. Whether he was slain on orders from Moscow or for personal vengeance may or may not come out in the trial of the man held as his slayer.

That sort of political activity lies outside American understanding and practice. Three presidents have been assassinated in the United States, but in each case it was the work of a crazed individual who looked upon all authority as tyranny and considered even an elected ruler a tyrant.

The path of totalitarian government is strewn with violence and murder. Leaders in such governments think nothing of taking the lives of opponents. It is not so in self-governing democracies. Bitter fights are waged, but with words, not the deadly weapons of the slinking assassin. And when the issues have been thrashed out during the progress of campaigns they are finally settled at the polls by a free electorate privileged to vote as each chooses.

Visit To State Fair Worthwhile

OHIO'S state fair opens in Columbus today and continues through next week, with prospects of larger than ordinary attendance.

Some folks make it a practice to attend the state fair regularly. Others have never been there. Somewhere between these two extremes may seem to be the right attitude toward a state fair—which is among the things that everybody should see at least once.

Aside from horse racing and other entertainment features, the Ohio state fair serves as an agricultural and industrial exposition which gives visitors much information, and a broader understanding of the diversified activities and opportunities provided in the Buckeye state.

Children, of junior and senior high school ages in particular, may have their outlook on the future considerably enlivened by a visit to the state fair—which might well be made a final family outing in advance of the re-opening of schools.

Geological Storage Tanks

A BIG STEP in the conservation of resources is evidenced when natural gas is taken from its underground hiding places in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Texas, and piped to New York state to be stored underground until needed. That is what the Brooklyn Union-Quadrangle corporation is preparing to do in the gas fields of the Schuyler county area.

The natural storage chamber extends for hundreds of acres, surrounded by layers of rock and salt that are expected to hold the gas safely for many years. It will be there when needed, and the pressure will provide the additional pressure for the gas pipelines.

If man can learn to do with the stores of Mother Nature what he does in the realm of natural science, what a wonderful place this earth would be!

Roaming Dogs are Dangerous

THE attack which several dogs made on a Mansfield boy a couple of days ago emphasizes the importance of owners being required to keep their dogs on their own premises instead of permitting them to roam at large as has been a too common practice in Mansfield.

Recognizing the value of a gentle, well-behaved dog as a family pet, there can be no condoning the idea of owning or harboring a vicious dog in a community where it endangers children or adults, or constitutes a neighborhood nuisance.

Closer surveillance of Mansfield's dog population, to make sure that all are licensed and properly restricted, will be in accord with expressed public opinion on this subject.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Dr. Rudolph Kagey admits that Kurt Steel, the author of mystery novels, gets in his hair.

Dr. Kagey is a professor at New York university. He is an Illinois boy of Swiss extraction, who occupies himself with writing such classical items as histories of British Idealism. He has been on this chore now for five years and expects that it will take another five years before it is complete. This, he says tartly, is the fault of Kurt Steel. Steel, the mystery writer, interferes seriously with Kagey, the definer of British idealism. How come?

Well, Steel's last book was a chiller called "Dead of Night." And Kagey read it. Actually, he lived it. He couldn't get it out of his mind. On those nights when he should have been polishing his treatise on a more classical plane, he was debating the wisdom of thrillers with Steel. They pestered each other. They denounced each other. Now and then they clasped hands warmly, and slapped each other on the back. Nevertheless, there was evidence of conflict. Steel, himself, began to feel that Kagey was a not altogether satisfactory influence on his mystery writing.

THE other day Dr. Kagey, who is also educational director of the New York World's Fair, drifted into a group that had given itself over to a discussion of literature. The subject got around to mystery stories. Someone mentioned Steel's latest thriller and suggested that here was a guy who knew what the mystery novel racket was all about . . . "Well," said Kagey, "he is a fair writer but no one could call his novels really worthwhile. They may satisfy a . urge for the moment, but there is nothing lasting to them."

In this group, and getting angrier ever minute, was a woman magazine editor. Her eyes fairly blazed as Kagey uttered his mild denunciation of Steel. Suddenly she turned on him and demanded to know what the hell he, a college professor, could hope to know about mystery novels. Who was he anyway to rap a man who was answering a public trend, a definite growing need among the book reading public of the nation.

Kagey swallowed and shut up. He mumbled a sort of apology. Seeing his chance a few moments later, he retrieved his hat and left the room.

But his apology did not satisfy the woman editor, who continued a militant verbal defense of Mr. Steel after Kagey had departed.

But then, after all, you could not blame her. Not a single solitary person in that group had seen fit to point out to her that Kagey and Steel were the same person.

Destroyers May Not Go In Time

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Best opinion in Washington now is that Britain will get those 50 old World War destroyers for which Gen. John Pershing made a radio appeal recently. The big question is whether Britain will get them in time to do any good. The point is that the Battle of Britain may be decided before delivery.

Wendell Willkie properly ignored the destroyer episode in his acceptance speech. But while he did not mention them, he left no doubt in any Administration quarter that there would be no attack by him if the government decided to give this sorely needed aid to Britain. There would have been no point in his mentioning the destroyers, because there is nothing Willkie can do about them.

Even if he is elected, the Battle of Britain will have been won or lost before he assumes office. As a matter of fact, it will probably have been won or lost six weeks before election day.

September 15, for some reason, has been the German "deadline." It will be recalled that German representatives, negotiating with U. S. businessmen, proposed deliveries after that date, though they were unwilling to discuss why this date was picked. They merely said that the military establishment in Berlin informed them that the war would be over by September 15, with Britain conquered.

It is important to remember, however, that UNLESS there has been a successful invasion of Britain by September 15, it would seem likely that the war will stretch through the winter at least and further, that passage of so much time before the real invasion could be made in the spring would find the British that much better prepared than they are today.

BY THE time this magical date arrives, fall weather will have set in on the English channel, with fogs and storms, which might result in Dame Nature saving England again as she did at the time of the Spanish Armada. Of course no one knows what the new "surprise weapon" is that the Nazis have been talking so much about, and about which correspondents with the German army on the Belgian and French coasts have been hinting.

It is possible, of course, that the Germans have figured out a way to land an army in Britain, after pulverizing by bombing attacks the country right behind the coast on which they propose to land, which would make it possible regardless of weather conditions. This seems highly unlikely but it is unwise to dismiss any possibility.

THE general picture remains that, at the moment, the odds are slightly against Britain. The picture remains, however, that IF she is able to hold out until the fogs and storms come, those 50 old destroyers would be a tremendous help. It also appears to be a fact, if the recent published polls are correct, that a large majority of the American people are in favor of letting the British have them, on the theory that the longer Britain is able to fight, the longer America has to get ready.

The isolationists, headed by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, are fighting this, screaming at William C. Bullitt for his speech urging more aid to Britain promptly, and doing everything they dare to prevent further aid. But politically they have no place to go. Neither Roosevelt nor Willkie gives them any chance, since the Willkie acceptance speech, to play the one against the other. Every indication is that even the Middle Western states are gradually moving, though slowly, toward the position taken by both major candidates.

So it seems more of a certainty that Britain will get the destroyers. It's just a question of whether it will be soon enough!

Old Dogs—New Tricks—Or Else!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(In grateful tribute to Mr. Bert Page of N. W. Ayer & Son, who helps you take the hurdles with a smile.)

AS A YOUNGSTER, Old People gave me a pain. It was needless to tell me that I should respect my Elders. What—I protested—was there about those Old Sticks to respect? They were dull beyond endurance. They were mostly, Meanies or Cry-babies. They never did anything new. Worse, yet, they condemned all Newness as though it were a crime. What treat were they to themselves, or anyone else—I wondered.

I'm still wondering. By calendar rating, I'm Getting On, myself—being fifty-seven. Yet I still believe that most of the accepted disadvantages and eccentricities of old age are plain cussedness—and nothing else but. And that if we'd treat laziness and cowardice at fifty, as we treat it at twenty, everyone concerned would be vastly better off.

Take, for example, that revered tradition that it is impossible "to teach old dogs new tricks." If ever there was a swell alibi for self-indulgent Softies, that's it! And how they take advantage of it! I know countless homes where Mom or Pop, or Gramma or Grampa, make life not only inconvenient, but well-nigh unendurable, by their refusal to accept new fangled notions and gadgets. I could even mention various boards of directors—even federal figures such as congressmen and senators—who do the same. But there's no sane reason for it.

THE simple truth is that an Old Dog can learn a new trick as well as a Young One—provided he wants to! Wanting to—that's the crux of the whole problem. For learning a new trick is never an easy matter whether you're seventeen or seventy.

New tricks always involve change, risk, discomfort and difficult adjustment. Also, maybe, you'll make a fool of yourself—which is an easy matter at any age. A kid, however, can use such alibis, even though he is as greatly handicapped by shyness and inexperience as Grampa is by his hardened arteries. Willy, nilly, the kid must go ahead and take a chance. But Dad and Grampa (thanks to gray hairs and bay windows) can dodge the issue. And generally do. The Big 'Fraidies!

At which point most of my contemporaries are giving me Dirty Looks and asking leading questions. I'm a settled and successful columnist—ain't I? Then what do I know about 'learning new tricks?'

Dearies—I know plenty. Or I wouldn't be eating. In the first place you might as well get over this idea that 'there's any such thing as a 'settled and successful columnist.' A columnist is something that beats his own circulation every day—or starts taking in washings. There is no such thing as "resting on your laurels" in this game. First place, there aren't any laurels. And if there's any resting, your relatives pay for the tombstone. So what?

SO YOU LEARN NEW TRICKS . . . AND LIKE 'EM!

Right now, Frinstance, I'm juggling a whole fistful of new tricks. One's a dictograph. It's true—I have three secretaries. Three husky males. But it's common knowledge that a female tongue—any female tongue—can outrace a whole regiment of males. So, between dictation, I let off steam into a weird contraption that looks like a combination vacuum cleaner and safety deposit vault. Do I like it? No, I don't. The most complicated mechanics the young gals of my generation ever had to tackle was an egg beater. And this Listening Lizzie scares me pink. But am I going to let that cramp my style? Not if I know it.

Also, I'm taking on a commercial broadcast for the first time. (Dial in on me this winter. And for the Luvva Pete, give me a hand!) Now broadcasting may seem simple—but famous female stars have fainted at the sight of that little tin trinket . . . and strong men have gone ga-ga. Nor do I forget the fact that, in my youth, fifty-seven year old dames were relegated to rocking chairs and tatting.

But what will that fact buy me today?

IT WILL BUY ME EXACTLY NOTHING.

Fifty-seven years may have meant Old Timers in the Eighties and Nineties—but they mean Hustling Humans in 1940—or take the consequences. And tough as it is on my natural laziness, I'm all for the new idea. Nine-tenths of our notions about old age are simply alibis for self-indulgence . . . bad temper . . . cowardice, conceit and a general, cockeyed viewpoint.

As you'd darn soon learn if you had to hit the air!

This Is Ohio

THE ROOSEVELT game preserve is one of the most interesting spots in Ohio. Located in Scioto county, the preserve covers an area of some 9,000 acres and is noteworthy for its wild life and historical and geological features of importance.

The region is a vast field for wildlife study. During the winter and spring months, black bear and Virginia white tail deer are seen in considerable numbers. Small mammals and numerous species of birds are common. On the lakes and reservoirs, hundreds of water fowl may be seen during their migration season.

The preserve is open to visitors all year.

Timely Editorial

Ohio's Treasure Store.

An interesting booklet, "Ohio Cherishes Her Rich Historic Tradition," has come to us from the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society. It calls attention to the vast wealth of historical treasures within the state.

A fact which too few Ohioans appreciate is that the state has the most notable historic remains to be found in this country at Serpent Mound, Newark, Fort Ancient and Miamisburg. Flint Ridge, source of the raw material for various tribes, is a spot which unites the visitor with a past that was not recorded in the written word, but which tells a voluminous story none the less. There are 13 pre-historic properties in the state, each of which is well worth the time and effort needed to visit.

The list of historic properties of the state is too long to permit listing, but before going to other states to gaze with awe upon things connected with the history of the country, Ohioans would do well to become acquainted with their own state.—Ohio State Journal.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Newsmen See 'Weird Weapons' As Germans Intensify Attacks

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THIS was supposed to be Der Week for Germany. Nazis had talked of a tremendous crescendo of air bombardment to be climaxed by invasion. The bombardment came last week-end; thousands of planes roared over Britain. But quite abruptly the tumult abated, and several days passed without invasion.

Was this due to bad weather or Hitlerian tactics? Observers couldn't agree.

There were reports from Berlin of "extremely bad weather" over the channel. But Britons cheerfully related that their bombing of Berlin, Norway and Italy had been aided by a harvest moon.

British experts thought the new mode of attack—individual hit-and-run raids—were designed to avoid heavy losses. Masses of planes flying in close formation, they said, made perfect targets for anti-aircraft guns and pursuit ships. (During the last week they asserted Germans lost 701 planes and 1,500 fliers.)

Thursday's fighting was in the nature of a heavy artillery duel across the English channel, with German long-range guns in action on the French coast from Bouloge to Calais.

Weird Weapons.

But there were strong hints from the German capital that Hitler still had blitzkrieg, and not siege, in mind. AP Newsman Louis Lochner toured the French coast near Calais and reported formidable preparations going on behind "one of the most effective screens of camouflage ever devised by man."

He told of seeing weapons of the "weirdest character" being tested. German troops and officers told him: "Oh, by September it will be all over."

In one of Prime Minister Churchill's best oratorical performances—calm and polished, yet bursting with exuberance — he pepped up his countrymen Tuesday. German bombers were roaring over southeastern England at the time. He exulted:

"The seas and oceans are open. The magnetic mine is mastered.

"The merchant tonnage . . . is larger than when we began.

"Our stocks of foods of all kinds are many times as great as in days of peace.

"The enemy is, of course, far more numerous than we are (in planes) but our new production already largely exceeds his."

Food Can't Pass.

Concerning former President Hoover's plan to relieve France and the Lowlands he said sorry. Allowing food to reach the Nazis would "prolong the agony of all Europe," he stated.

Instead he said Britain would encourage countries throughout the world to build up reserves of food. This food would be dangled before the eyes of captive Europe, including Germany. The peoples then would know that the shattering of Nazi power would bring them not only freedom and peace, but food.

Quotes

William C. Bullitt, U. S. Ambassador to France: "Without the British navy, the Atlantic would give us no more protection than the Maginot line gave France after the German troops had marched through Belgium."

Senator Clark, of Idaho: "In my opinion the address of Mr. Bullitt, coming from a man in his position, at this time, is very little short of treason."

Senator Lee, a Baptist minister: "I don't see why a year's military training would hurt a man who was studying for the ministry."

which Britain protects the "back door" to the Suez canal.

It might, however, mean a serious loss of prestige for Britain in the Near East.

Life With Conquerors.

Before France fell her propagandists made much of rumors that Berlin was a bleak, hungry city. AP Newsman Henry Cassidy went to Berlin recently from Paris. He reported: "The Germans are eating, drinking and smoking; they have gasoline and oil. Coming into Berlin, the first striking thing is the animation in the streets . . . in contrast to the emptiness of the Paris streets.

"I even found tubes of gasoline for lighters on cigar store counters. . . . Taxis and private automobiles are restricted to 'non-frivolous' uses. . . .

"Sufficient food could be found. There are only two meat-less days . . . but ration tickets must be presented in restaurants for meat, bread, butter, rice and cheese. Real coffee and chocolate cannot be had, and sugar is served sparsely."

Trotsky's 'Friend.'

Mercurical, goateed Leon Trotsky was a bigger man than Josef Stalin in Bolshevik affairs during the early days of the revolution in Russia. He commanded the Red army and was regarded by many as Lenin's heir.

But Trotsky, an individualist, had many enemies within the party; and Stalin eased himself into the party's key position. So when Lenin died in 1924 the stolid Stalin eventually got the job. A humiliated Trotsky was demoted to minor posts.

When he criticized decrees of the majority in power he was banished. (He favored an immediate drive for world revolution while Stalin thought the Reds should intrench themselves more strongly in Russia first.)

From Turkey, Norway and finally Mexico, Trotsky launched venomous editorial attacks on Stalin. Repeated attempts were made on his life. His bedroom was machine-gunned in May.

This week the proud Trotsky was murdered by a pickax-wielding Persian native who had been on friendly terms with him for a year. Before dying Trotsky whispered that his assailant "most likely" was a member of the Soviet secret police.

At Home

Panama's Third Channel.

Biggest bogey of U. S. admirals is that the Panama Canal's locks may be wrecked. The fleet then would not be able to slip quickly from one ocean to another in an emergency.

Two sets of locks already exist at Panama. But to reduce further the canal's vulnerability, a third set is to be built, reserved for the navy only. About $277,000,000 will be spent. Normally the job would take six years. But it may be completed much sooner.

Already a fleet of dredges is at work enlarging the canal. Personnel experts are scouring engineering colleges for graduates capable of helping design the new locks.

Towns for Sale.

The three model "Greenbelt" towns built by the New Deal and famed for their low-cost homes, their traffic-free park areas, their underpasses are Greenbelt, Md., Greendale, Wis., and Greenhills, O.

This week the federal security administration announced they will be "put on their own." By December it hopes to sell them to local housing authorities or local non-profit corporations.

Decennial Changes.

Early returns from the 1940 census indicate that the nation's population was upped about 6.5% during the decade. Several states rose about 10% while a few (Nebraska 4.7%, Oklahoma 2.6%, South Dakota 7.6%) lost population. These shifts promise that at least a score of the house's 235 seats will be shifted before 1942. The electoral college also will be affected.

It's expected that the South and the Far West will gain seats while the drought-ridden Middle West and the depression-hit Northeastern states lose seats.

Dies Developments.

Irrepressible Rep. Martin Dies, unAmerican committee head, sounded off on these topics while in California this week—

He said his committee would hear 43 unidentified movie personalities on charges of Communistic leanings and announce conclusions.

He stated that there are 675 "German and other foreign spies" in the San Francisco area, many holding key industrial jobs.

He demanded that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie state "unequivocally whether they favor outlawing the Communist party."

Abroad

Somaliland and Greece.

British Somaliland, on the "horn" of East Africa facing the Gulf of Aden, is a land of 340,000 fierce warriors, flat sand, thorny bush, pestiferous flies and blistering sunshine. Since Britain captured it 56 years ago it has never been financially productive.

This week Il Duce's desert fighters from Italian East Africa pushed the British garrison of 7,000 men from the territory. Italy's newspapers whooped that a spectacular victory had been scored. British spokesmen pooh-poohed that it puts the Italians closer to Arabian Aden, the base from

COMING MARRIAGE DISCLOSED AT PARTY

Miss Helen White to Become Bride of Rev. Sylvester Porter at Park Avenue Baptist Church Oct. 2.

FRIENDS of Miss Helen White learned of her approaching marriage to Rev. Sylvester Porter when her mother, Mrs. S. B. White, entertained with a party yesterday evening at the family home, 187 Gerke avenue. The honoree's sister-in-law, Mrs. C. H. White, and her aunt, Mrs. R. H. Noss, were associate hostesses for the affair.

The wedding will be solemnized at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 2 before the altar of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Rev. H. E. Tropf, pastor of the Grace Gospel church, will perform the ceremony.

The nuptial announcement was made by means of miniature newspaper extras, and prizes in the games were awarded to Mrs. Ruth Stull and Miss Rose Schuster. Garden flowers decorated the tables when refreshments were served. The hostesses presented the bride-elect with a chenille bedspread in honor of the occasion.

Miss White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. White, formerly was a teacher at John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed Junior high schools. She was schooled at Shiloh high school, Ashland college, the Missionary Training institute in Nyack, N. Y., and Seattle Pacific college in Washington.

Rev. Porter now is pastor of the First Baptist church in Rushville, Ind., but in two weeks, he will go to Noblesville, Ind., to begin a new pastorate there. He attended Shiloh high school, Moody Bible institute in Chicago, Ill., and Asbury college in Wilmore, Ky.

Out-of-Town Pair Entertain for Virginia Rimmer

Miss Virginia Rimmer, who will become the bride of Jennings Helser tomorrow in an open church ceremony at 2:30 p. m. at the First Methodist church, was feted last night at a party given at the home of Mrs. Richard Wolcott, Mt. Gilead. She was assisted by Mrs. Everet Shipman, Shelby.

A shower of kitchen gifts was presented to the honoree, and the hostesses gave her a corsage and a utility chair. Refreshments were served at small tables decorated with blue bud vases of garden flowers.

Miss Maxine Rimmer and Mrs. Russell Powell, Edison, were the bridge winners when the diversion was in play at four tables.

In addition to the bride-elect and her sister, Mrs. Duane Darling also of Mansfield was a guest, and Mrs. Charles Atwell, former Mansfielder, now living in Pittsburgh, Pa., was also present.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, August 25.

SUNDAY'S horoscope accents spiritual, mystical and cultural activities, with much gratification in such application. There are hints of untoward, disastrous adventures connected with journeys, changes, removals or in peculiar situations in which treachery or irregularity are strangely ominous. Refrain from all sorts of chances and hazards.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of upsets and upheavals, both sudden and unpredictable. It would be wise to be cautious in travel and in all manner of changes. Be governed by intuitions rather than eccentric whims.

A child born on this day may be unusually gifted in creative expression, probably in music, poetry or art of a novel or modernistic form. It will have some erratic tendencies, with leanings toward "the easiest way"—expediency rather than principle. Yet it will be spiritually inclined, strongly intuitive.

For Monday, Aug. 26.

Monday's astrological forecast is rather conflicting with signs of drastic activity, with matters moving at high tempo and in aggressive attack. Rash, tempestuous and impulsive conduct may have power to undermine very expansive and productive prospects, in which superiors may be aggravated to non-cooperation. With restraint, composure and good judgment, there may be real achievement.

Those whose birthday it is have prospects of some very constructive and productive activities during the year if they will but curb tendencies to rash, turbulent and overaggressive action. Well-directed force, enthusiasm and stimulated mind and energies could lead to expansion and real success. Strife, passion and overindulgence spell defeat and grief.

A child born on this day should be talented, forceful and ardent, with really fine mentality and intentions but it may stand in need of discipline and self control.

Paper on Grasses Given Before Club

The regular meeting of the Mansfield Garden club was held Friday at the home of Miss Lillian Dickson, Stewart Lane. Mrs. L. W. Olson was associate hostess. Mrs. M. O. Doolittle, horticulture chairman, gave a program on grasses.

Mrs. A. M. Colby, school garden chairman, reported on the awards presented and told of taking the 160 children participating on a tour of the Rigby and the Ballylin farms gardens.

Mrs. Arthur Rigby and Mrs. Ephraim Brown poured. The next meeting will be Sept. 6 with Mrs. Fred Wolf. Mrs. Glenn Vinson will assist.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE.

Announcement was made here today of the marriage of Miss Grace Strang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strang, Loudonville, and Robert Zeitler, son of Fred W. Zeitler, Sixth avenue. The ceremony was read at 2 p. m. Aug. 17 at the Zion Lutheran church there with Rev. J. H. Kuhlman officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Zeitler are living temporarily at 80 Waring avenue until the completion of their new home in Coolridge Heights.

Tell Wedding Date Of Miss Hershey At Evening Event

At a party given last night at the Wickliffe Manor the approaching marriage of Miss Mildred Hershey, daughter of Mrs. Innes V. Hershey, 82 Home avenue, was announced. She will become the bride of Edgar J. Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Berry in an open church ceremony to be performed Sept. 14 at the South Main Street Evangelical church at 1:30 p. m. Rev. C. L. Kern will officiate.

The announcements were concealed in rosebud place cards marking the places of the 24 guests at the two refreshments tables. Yellow and white appointments were used and the tables were centered with floral decorations and candelabra.

Both Miss Hershey and Mr. Berry are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. She is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, while he is employed at Farm Tools, Inc.

Miss Hershey told her friends that she had chosen Mr. Berry's sister, Mrs. Neil Swank as matron of honor, and her husband-to-be has selected his brother, Robert, as best man.

Mrs. Dale Weber, Shelby, was an out-of-town guest.

Take This Hot Dish on Next Picnic

By BETSY NEWMAN

A SPAGHETTI and meat casserole is one of those dishes that may be cooked at home and taken hot to the picnic ground to be served in paper plates. It goes equally well at home, too, of course.

Today's Menu.

Spaghetti and Meat Casserole
Creamed Green Beans
Pear Salad
Devil's Food Cake
Iced Coffee

* * *

Spaghetti and Meat Casserole.

¼ cup fat
1 onion, chopped
2 cups cooked spaghetti
1 lb. hamburger
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1½ cups tomatoes
¾ cup cheese

Fry onion in fat, add meat and seasonings and cook for 5 minutes. Place alternate layers of meat mixture and elbow spaghetti with drippings in an oiled casserole or baking dish, add tomatoes, sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for from 35 to 45 minutes.

Pear Salad.

Fresh Pears
Cream or Cottage Cheese
Mayonnaise
Lettuce
Chopped nuts

Peel pears, halve and take out cores. Fill cavities with cream or cottage cheese, place on bed of lettuce, top with mayonnaise and sprinkle with chopped nut meats, salted or fresh.

* * *

Devil's Food Cake.

1½ squares chocolate, melted

LATE AFTERNOON CEREMONY READ

Miss Eloise Tingley, Robert C. Nye Exchange Nuptial Vows at Family Home; Rev. Goerner Officiates.

IN A QUIET CEREMONY at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Tingley, 44 Mansfield avenue, Miss Eloise Tingley exchanged marriage vows with Robert C. Nye yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The home was decorated with ferns and pastel colored gladioli and garden flowers for the service, which was performed by Rev. O. S. Goerner of the First Lutheran church. Mrs. Robert Myers played the piano nuptial music, and her selections included "Liebestraum" and "Because" as well as the wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white embroidered batiste with a white picture hat. She carried an arm bouquet of pastel shaded gladioli.

Mrs. Herbert Rinehart was her sister's only attendant, and her gown was of blue organza. She wore a white picture hat too and carried an arm bouquet of contrasting colored gladioli. Mr. Nye chose his brother, Richard Nye, as his best man.

A reception for 33 guests was held after the wedding, and the buffet refreshment table was decorated with summer flowers.

Later the couple left for a week's vacation at Lake Erie. Mrs. Nye's traveling costume was black and white.

Upon returning to the city, Mr. Nye and his bride will reside temporarily with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Nye, 832 Park avenue west.

The former Miss Tingley is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and the Mansfield Business Training school. She is employed at the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company. Mr. Nye attended Bliss college in Columbus following his graduation from Mansfield Senior high school, and he now is employed in the Compensation bureau.

Mrs. E. J. Oberndorfer and Miss Florence Powell of Pittsburgh, Pa., were out-of-town guests in attendance at the wedding and reception.

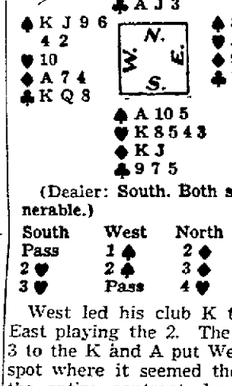
"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP ON TRYING

Defenders have a chance to show their nerve just as well as declarers. When it looks as if the contract is certain to be made, the courageous opponent will try to figure out some possible situation whereby there is still a remote chance to head it off. Frequently this must take the form of hoping your partner holds some one particular card and then playing as if you knew he held it. If he does, you are rewarded. If he does not, you may have presented the declarer with a trick or so he otherwise could not have won. But the risk is worth it.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	2 ♠	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

West led his club K to the A. East playing the 2. The diamond 3 to the K and A put West in the spot where it seemed the fate of the entire contract depended on what he did next, if indeed the contract could be beaten at all. He put on his thinking cap and decided first that a lead of the club Q might produce a second trick, but also might make life easier for the declarer, since it would set up the dummy's J and might possibly get ruffled by South.

Figuring out a situation whereby it might be possible to beat the contract, West saw that, if declarer had three small spades, six hearts, three diamonds and a singleton club, a lead of the club Q would get ruffed. Trumps would be dropped, and two diamonds and the club J would furnish discards for all the losing spades, giving declarer six-odd, even though East held the spade A. If this was the situation, the contract could be beaten by leading a small spade to the A, winning the return, then leading a third spade. If East had three trumps to the J, the dummy would have to ruff high to prevent an over-ruff. This might then build a trump trick for East. Of course, the effort didn't work, but at least West was trying, at the cost of one trick.

Your Week-End Lesson.

If the defenders had done no bidding, and the heart K is led by West, how should South plan his play for 4-Spades, with each of the four hands below as the dummy?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Oh, yes, please," I told the head master, and while I waited to hear the voices of the boys, I put my hand over the mouthpiece of the telephone, and spoke to Katherine and Lillian who still were standing close beside me.

"Scarlet fever epidemic in the town," I murmured. They are closing school, and sending the boys home."

There is a tradition in our household that nothing ever ruffles Katherine's composure, but to my surprise she cried out at my news as any emotional mother, seeing her children threatened, might have done.

"Bill and Hank must not come here," she said, "until all danger of possible infection is over. Scarlet fever! Faith and the small boys! We mustn't risk it!"

There was authority as well as emotion in her voice, and authority which I welcomed and to which I always bow because of the rare skill as well as the infinite devotion which she brings to the care of my children.

"We won't have to," I reassured her, and then I heard Bill's voice, affectionate, apologetic, and a bit nervous.

"Auntie Madge? I'm sorry you have to have all this bother, but I guess you'll have to have us come home. But will that be safe with the kids?"

My plan for the boys, hazy and sketchy, was not yet completed in my mind, and I sparred for time while putting the question whose possible negative answer I had so feared when I had heard that the head master wished to speak to me.

"I'll manage that," I said "and I'll tell you my plan for you in a minute. But, first, tell me only be careful what you say is Hank all right—you know what I mean."

"Yes, I know," Bill said slowly, and I knew he was choosing his words with a view to eavesdroppers. "He's perfectly all right. Cough much better, and—everything else okay."

"I'm so glad," I said. "Now here is my plan for you. You can't make connections tonight anyway, so when you get to New York, go directly to the Lansfield."

Free of School Rules.

"Oh! boy! the Lansfield!" our usually quiet Bill emoted with the zest at getting away from rigid dormitory rules to the freedom of hotel life which only a preparatory school student knows.

"Yes," I reiterated, "the Lansfield—I think to our old suite, but if not they'll have reservations for you. Perhaps you'd better stay there two or three days, and have a good time going to the movies and seeing the city."

Bill did not interrupt me again, but his distinctly audible deep drawn breath was more eloquent than words.

"I'll have a good physician come and check up on you, and see you once a day," I went on, "so there'll be no chance of anything developing."

"You don't mean—for Hank?" —his voice was alarmed, but he almost whispered the words.

"No, no," I answered, "just to watch, so there'll be no chance of scarlet fever developing. And we'll see that the hotel has money for you to draw upon within reason. How does that program strike you?"

"It's a wonderful plan," he answered. "And I suppose it's better we don't come home at first, although it would be swell to see you all. There's just one thing—that money business—me the treasurer. I'm afraid."

His voice trailed off, and I knew he was thinking of Hank's possible jealousy. I gave a mental salute to the delicate feeling for the fitness of things which the boy possesses before answering his question.

"I do not mean that you should not give Hank money for his personal use," I told him. "But one of you has to manage things, and you're the older. I'll write you a letter right away and send it special delivery. You ought to get it tomorrow morning. Now, is Hank near you?"

LUCKY FOR LOVE

CHAPTER XXVI

It was Bruce who advised Marilyn to go to her parents in person, to reassure and comfort them.

"Try to make them feel that nothing out of the ordinary has happened," he said, and suddenly drew the startled but yielding Lynn into his arms. "Poor little soldier," he said, tenderness husking his voice. "It's a tough assignment. Wish I could take it for you."

"Thanks, Bruce." A tweed shoulder, the right tweed shoulder, could be a beautiful haven. "Your wishing makes it easier." She had the grace to blush, seeing Kathie's amazed smile.

"Don't mind me," Kathie said. "I'm just the old family friend with bad eyesight. Bruce is right, Lynn. This is a job that needs a lot of doing. It's up to you."

"But Miss Cook! She won't like leaving without her permission, and I've been with Clarco such a short time. You know how she is about discipline. I do want to justify her trust in me, to prove the few good things I've done for Clarco weren't merely accidents——"

Bruce stroked the bright brown head so close to him.

"I'll take care of Cookie," he promised. "She has a heart under that grim mask she uses to scare people."

"If you're sure it will be all right," wistfully. "I would like to see young Bill."

Bruce was decisive. "I'm sure. And now I'll go see about your ticket. Plane would be best. Give you more time at home and the sooner you get there the sooner you'll be back. Ever fly, Lynn?"

"No, but I've always wanted to."

"Then that's settled. I'll be back soon with the ticket and a hamper of food from the corner delicatessen. You girls pack while I'm gone, then we'll put on a picnic."

* * *

In the midst of the scurry for the right clothes and the right place to stow them in the bag, Al Martino arrived with a fresh packet of news. "Hermie Hess up and married the faded flower he tossed away a long time ago for fresher blooms. Clara must have plumb scared him into it. He was afraid she'd come back and start nicking on him again. So he got himself a set of wedding bans to keep her off. What goes on here?"

Marilyn told him of her proposed visit to Millville and the reason for it.

"It's Bruce's suggestion," she said. The name Bruce was music on her lips. "He's arranging leave for me at the office and he's going to get my ticket."

Kathleen was in the bedroom finishing the packing.

"It's that way between Bruce and you, isn't it, Duchess?" Al's hands were on Marilyn's shoulders, his dark eyes earnestly seeking answer in hers.

"It's that way with me, Al," she said. Tears trembled on her lashes but her answer was straight and strong.

"I know. I've known since that first night, the night I took a black-out in the Blue Parrot. It's okay, Duchess. Gordon is a right hombre. Better guys they don't make. I'm all for him, just like I'm all for you. Me I'm a rolling stone. Stop me rolling and likely as not I'd crack up into a lot of little no-count pebbles. You're a grand gal, honey-chile, and a grand pal. This is your Uncle Al broadcasting, and he's keeping right on with the old friendship program until you give him the signal to sign off."

"Then he'll be broadcasting through his long white beard," Marilyn said and found tears were happy ones.

"If only we could have stopped Clara." A shadow fell aslant the happiness. "She's so helpless—"

"Hey, Duchess, hush that helpless blurb, will you?" Al was his old sophisticated self again. "If Blondie is helpless, I'm a babe in arms. She inched herself out of Millville into Big Town, didn't she? She stayed here and wangled herself a good spot in the Blue Parrot, hottest spot in town, didn't she? Then what? She picked a Good Time Charlie for a platterful of fancy jewelry, enough champagne to float the Queen Mary and a 'grand' in cash, plus a nice luxury ride in an airplane to Hollywood. She's out there now telling the lads on the lots how beautiful she is, and my money says she'll find a sap or two who'll believe her. Don't underestimate Blondie's ability to look out for Blondie. All that wildness is just a part of her technique. Underneath it she's figuring how soon she can take you and for how much. It's the take all-give nothing technique and Queenie from Millville is its classic performer."

The plane that was to carry Marilyn to Millville warmed up in the airport. Kathleen was there to see her off—by special permission of Cookie. Al, too, and Bruce. Such a serious Bruce, such a dear, tender, shining Bruce. A few minutes now, last farewells, and she would be winging into the sky, the city of dream that held so much promise and of bitter disappointment below, behind her.

"Plane for Philadelphia—" That was her plane.

"Bruce, my ticket! You have it?"

"I hope so. It should be in this envelope."

Suppose Bruce had mislaid the ticket? She peered inside the envelope. "Bruce," she said excitedly, "there are two tickets exactly alike."

"You don't think I would trust the girl I love to the mercy of a sky pilot on her first flight, did you? Besides, there's a question I must ask your father, if you'll let me. I want his consent to taking you on as a permanent partner in Clarco. Up the ramp, dear. They're ready to take off. 'Bye Kathie. So long, Al."

Bruce followed Marilyn up the ramp and disappeared after her into the plane.

"Whaddo you know?" Al Martino said, watching the flash of silver wings against blue sky. "The Prince of Good Fellows copped the Duchess. The ladies Lady Luck can do for folks."

The End.

SAYS EQUALITY IDEA OVERDONE BY AMERICANS

Graduation Speaker Points Out Physical and Mental Diferences of People.

"We in America have carried the concept of equality too far" declared Dr. R. R Haun in the commencement address "Educating the Democrat" delivered to the Ashland college summer graduating class Friday.

He noted that formerly the concept of freedom and equality was confined only to the political realms but has since been extended to embrace the social and economic realms.

This, the professor maintained is too far because people are not equal physically or mentally. With the recognition of this fact has come a change in the schools for now children rather than all being taught the same subjects are taught those things which will contribute the most to their lives.

Dr. Haun emphasized the fact that democracy is not equality of life but equality of the opportunity to live. He stated that children in school should be taught this. Democracy is the freedom to choose, the professor said, and in the schools the child must be allowed to choose with the help and guidance of his teachers. The child must learn to understand himself and then be given the opportunity to choose in terms of what he can do best, the speaker said

"We must teach democrats that democracy costs" Dean Haun said. He spoke of the fact that one can not live in a democracy and assume none of the responsibilities of that government Too often, he stated people are inclined to regard the government as "they" rather than "we."

In conclusion Dr. Haun stated that no organization can give freedom unless it is paid for by the members of that organization.

Following Dr. Haun's commencement address Paul Smith Mansfield, president of the class, made the presentation of the class gift. The gift which provides for the beautifying of the campus south of Allen Hall, the women's dormitory, was accepted by Dr E. G Mason

President E G. Mason was the featured speaker at an Ashland college alumni banquet held in honor of the summer graduating students Friday noon Dr. P. E Kellogg, president of the alumni organization served as toastmaster.

Induction of the class into the alumni group was made by Dr Kellogg and the acceptance of membership was made by Paul Smith, Mansfield, president of the class.

Music during the banquet was furnished by a trio composed of Mary Bott, Harriett McConnell, and Dorcas Delozier

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There's a fellow tinkling away at the piano in the rehearsal hall, and in front of a big mirror a girl and a man are dancing away the afternoon. Trick steps, fast steps, bumps and boo-pas.

The girl is Betty Grable The man is Nick Castle. Nicks rehearsing Betty in some steps she'll do for the camera, and Betty's working so hard she can't keep that snood on. It's supposed to hold back her burnished gold hair, which won't be held back Nick is a slick dancer, and Betty's right up with him. They go through the steps again and again until Betty's plumb tuckered out. She stretches full length on a divan, and calls for another pair of shoes

It's work. Try it some time, if you're a skeptic. When you're through you start right in again. You're never through because there's always another number and another picture—if you're lucky

And that's what Betty, still panting a little from exertion, says she is Just plain lucky. "It's my rabbit's foot working overtime" she says of her new-found career.

* * *

It's been a strange career, at that Three times in her 10 years in pictures—she started at 13—Betty has thought she was through and then discovered she was just beginning

That's how it was last year when Betty decided to quit pictures for good Her contract at Paramount had expired and Betty was fed up with playing ceie coeds in college pictures

"I was so sick and tired of it I'd made up my mind to leave show business altogether," she says I'd saved up enough to stop a while. I began saving when I was making $60 a week and I've never stopped Besides, I wasn't getting anywhere. I wasn't going to beat my head against the Hollywood wall just to stay on the screen. So I retired—and then came an offer, unsolicited, to go on a personal appearance tour. I went Next thing I knew, Mr (Darryl) Zanuck had seen my picture in the paper and offered me a contract at a lot more money than I'd been getting at Paramount. I took it. Then along came Buddy DeSylva with a part in his Broadway show, 'DuBarry Was a Lady.' Mr. Zanuck said I could take it if I wanted to. I did. The show was successful.

"Then as if all this weren't enough, Alice Faye fell ill just before this picture ('Down Argentine Way') was to start and I was drafted to fill her shoes. If that's not luck I don't know what you'd call it. But that's how it's been all my life. I've had contracts with four studios in 10 years and each time I left one or was dropped I stepped into something better."

So after a while Betty gets up, with the fresh shoes on and her fetty neat figure in blue slacks and white silk blouse soon is being put through the motions of that interminable dance routine Step step tap step, step, tap whirl and step- tap and whirl on and on and on again

THEATERS

All-Star Cast In Film.

Plenty of laughs, excitement and romance are in store for audiences when they see "They Drive By Night" which opens at the Ohio today. In the starring roles are George Raft, Ann Sheridan, Ida Lupino and Humphrey Bogart. Raft plays a hardboiled chap who falls for Ann Sheridan, a waitress in a drive-in eatery. Their love is thwarted when Ida Lupino, wife of Raft's boss, murders her husband and accuses Raft of complicity in the affair.

Technicolor Drama.

Filmed in spectacular technicolor, the exciting and stirring climax to the daring exploits of the world's most famous outlaws comes to the screen at the Madison today, in "The Return of Frank James." Henry Fonda, who created the part of Frank James, Jesse's older brother, is cast in the title role Gene Tierney, new feminine star, and Jackie Cooper are also featured The story is of Frank's determination to avenge the cowardly murder of his brother, Jesse.

One of Best-Loved Classics.

One of the best loved of all story classics, Johann David Wyss, "Swiss Family Robinson," comes to the Park Sunday. It is a vivid and realistic film, replete with comedy, pathos and drama, and lavishly constructed sets and picturesque South Sea island background. Such outstanding film players as Thomas Mitchell, Edna Best, Freddie Bartholomew and Tim Holt are featured in the cast. The co-feature is "Girl From God's Country," with Chester Morris and Jane Wyatt in the leads.

South Sea Adventure.

South Sea romance and adventure are glorified with technicolor in "Typhoon" which opens Sunday at the Ritz. Robert Preston plays opposite Dorothy Lamour. Fire, typhoon and tidal wave are brought together in a single furious sequence, culminating in a gale in which whole palm trees are uprooted and go hurtling by in the tropic dusk. The second feature is "Shooting High," featuring Gene Autry and Jane Withers.

RETURNS TO DUTY

GALION—Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Gibbons sailed Saturday from New York for Tehran, Iran, where Mr. Gibbons will resume his post as secretary in the American Legation at Tehran. Indians Call Feller to the Rescue; Cincinnati Loses

Mansfield High Gridders Open Practice Sept. 2

Coach Snyder Issues Call for 60 Tyger Candidates To Report for Drills.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

KING Football is starting his annual march across the Mansfield sports fronts.

With less than a month to go before the king takes complete charge, Coach Paul Snyder, Mansfield Senior high's head pilot, is spending most of his time setting up plays and looking over the talent he will have available for the 1940 season.

Snyder, anxious to send his proteges into practice sessions for the strenuous schedule facing his gridders, issued a call today to some 60 candidates to report for the first official practice Monday, Sept. 2.

Missing this season are Dave Templeton, Howard Hershey, Red LeMunyon and "Ike" Smith, backs, and Capt. Mike Horvath, Gene Miller, John Phaler, Ed Goettl, Russ Beer, Sauder, Dick Weaver and Dick White, linemen.

The 1940 Tygers will be lighter than the 1939 team, but Snyder believes the newcomers will make it up with fight and speed.

Faced with the task of moulding together a winning combination with only three experienced lettermen back, Snyder is marking time today until he has a chance to see his squad in action.

Assisted by Vern Hoffman, basketball coach and assistant grid mentor, Snyder will have to make great strides in placing a smooth-working machine on the field in the opener Sept. 13 against Akron West under the floodlights at Stadium field.

The only experienced men returning this fall are Bob Lantz, blocking back, George Murray, tackle, and Martin Henke, fullback.

One bright side of the situation is the junior backfield he will have. It is composed of Bill Doolittler, Jim Templeton, Elroy "Lightning" Jones and Adam Brandt.

These four youngsters saw some action last season and looked impressive. They worked together in spectacular fashion and Snyder expects big things of them. As a unit they showed more speed, fight and ability than the regulars in 1939.

There are three other lettermen returning, but none of them saw active service last fall. Earl Garnes, blocking back, Ed Kinkle, fullback and Dick Wendland, guard make up the trio.

Listed below are the youngsters who are sure to make up the balance of the squad:

JUNIORS

SOPHOMORES

Howard Herrick and Don Cameron ends, Bill Bumelin, Ed Painter and Jim Buttage tackles, Jerry Snyder and Conrad Schuster, guards; Walter Carpente, center, and Bill Kinkle, John Butler, Louis Nameth and Louis Palmer, backs.

The DeMilo Beauty Salon foursome sports a one-point lead in The News-Journal women's golf league championship race—but the advantage may not hold up.

* * *

With two teams tied for second place, interest will settle on the final league matches next week at Possum Run. All three have a chance of winning and will be 'shooting the works.'

Winebrenner Stops Stars

Hurls One-Hit Ball In Taking Softball Decision.

"Stub" Winebrenner added another game to his already brilliant pitching record for the season last night when he allowed only one hit in hurling the Tinkey Lumber company softball team to a 1-0 victory over the Perrysville All-Stars in a game played under the lights at Loudonville.

* * *

G. Zody, first baseman for the All-Stars, proved to be the villian, getting the only hit off Winebrenner. Winebrenner struck out 12 All-Stars in chalking up his shut-out, and did not issue a base on balls.

* * *

The Tinkey Lumbers were held to four hits by Schrader, who worked on the mound for the Perrysville team, and scored their lone run in the fourth frame. Hess was the batting star for the Lumbers getting two hits in two trips to the plate, a double and a single. M Norvath and Young also hit safely

TINKEY LUMBER REUNION CANCELLS BALL GAMES

A double-header between the Tinkey Lumbers and the Ada Lumber company softball aggregations, scheduled for Sunday at North Lake park, has been postponed until a later date, according to an announcement today by J. H. Hedges, manager of the Tinkey team. The game has been called off due to the annual Tinkey reunion to be held tomorrow.

Old Timers Gather at Spiker's Grove Sunday

Baseball players of past years, living in Mansfield and Richland county, will spin many a yarn of days gone by when they meet Sunday at Spiker's grove for the annual Old Timers' picnic and outing. A feature of the day's program will be the annual Old Timers game to be played in the afternoon. The men begin to gather at the grove in the morning and spend the day there. A picnic dinner will be served at noon, followed by the baseball or softball game. Carl Maul is in charge of arrangements for the event.

Colonels Out To Win Berth

Club Battles to Remain In Shaughnessy Playoffs.

(By Associated Press)

Louisville's Colonels, battling to hang onto a Shaughnessy playoff berth with the season's end only three weeks away, face a major test today in the beginning of a three-game series with the Kansas City Blues, American association pacesetter.

The Colonels added a half game to their margin last night with an easy 10 to 4 victory over Milwaukee's basement outfit. Tot Pressnell gave the Brewers eight hits, including homers by Les Powers and Woody Abernathy, while Louisville was clubbing out 16 hits.

Kansas City and Indianapolis split two games. The Blues defeated Johnny Vander Meer in the 10-inning first game, 3 to 2. The former Cincinnati star yielded nine hits and struck out eight, but the leaders managed to squeeze home run in the last of the 10th. Vander Meer walked only three batters.

The Blues took a 3-1 lead in the second game but lost it and the game when Indianapolis scored five runs in the fourth, sewing up a 6 to 3 decision.

Cincinnati Hopes Ripple Can Handle Left Field

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI (AP) The Cincinnati Reds have poured what they hope is the last bucket of dough down the drainpipe out in left field

Their acquisition of hard-hitting Jimmy Ripple from under the noses of the Brooklyn Dodgers at the waiver price of $7,500 runs the cumulative cost of that left field position well above $100,000.

The immediate word is that the 31-year-old veteran may fill a utility role until some outfielder stumbles.

Since the year 1938, when Bill McKechnie first came to snap the Reds out of their cocoon and metamorphose them into a championship butterfly, the good deacon has solved all problems except left field.

Up to a dozen men have wandered through that stand of grass. Almost all have fallen into one of Mike Gonzales' two classifications —"good field no hit" or "good hit no field."

Some of the more notable generally pinned to them by a fandom larly pined to them by a fandom that likes to think in round numbers and sometimes in circles, were and are:

Wally Berger, from the New York Giants, 1938, $15,000.

Vince DiMaggio, from Kansas City, 1939 $40,000

Johnny Rizzo, from the Pirates 1940, for the $40,000 DiMaggio.

Morrie Arnovich, from the Phillies, 1940, for the ditto Rizzo.

Mike McCormick, from Indianapolis, 1940, $25,000 if he made good, $10,000 if he didn't.

* * *

Mike Dejan, from Chattanooga, 1940, $30,000.

Findlay Scores Four Times In Seventh to Win; Braves Home Today.

THE Mansfield Braves had another stinging defeat stamped in their record book today as they prepared to meet Findlay in an Ohio State league contest at the Fairground at 8:30 p. m.

Dick Snider, who had won two straight games, went to the mound last night at Findlay and the Oilers handed him a 6 to 2 beating.

Although he limited the Oilers to six hits—one less than the Braves collected—he ran into trouble in the seventh and before he could be relieved by Tony Drewek Findlay scored four times to break a 2-all tie and ice the affray.

Bob Arnold may be Manager Dewey Stover's selection to halt the second-place Findlay combine tonight.

Both outfits dented the plate for a pair of tallies in the first stanza last night, but after that the Braves couldn't do much damage. They left 11 men stranded on the bases as Abney hurled air-tight ball.

Outside of the seventh Snider pitched fine ball. He fanned five and gave up six walks. Abney issued three walks and only struck out two batters. The Braves committed three errors behind Snider.

The Mansfield club invades Fremont for a twin bill Sunday and will not return to the Fair park until Tuesday night when it clashes with Lima.

Gene Woodling, pace-maker in the league's individual batting race, led the Braves at the plate last night with a double and single. Herb Woodten added a double to the attack. Miazgay hit a home run for the winners.

HEROES — Steve Sundra, Yankees, who pitched six-hit ball and batted in what later proved to be the winning runs as New York whipped Cleveland; Max West, Bees, whose heavy hitting helped Boston beat the leading Reds.

GOATS—Pete Reiser, Dodgers whose eleventh inning error caused the downfall of Brooklyn yesterday; Bill Dietrich, White Sox, who weakened in the 11th as Washington defeated Chicago.

RAMS TRIUMPH

The Rams defeated the All-Stars 5 to 3 in a softball game played yesterday afternoon at Liberty park. McKinley worked on the mound for the winners, and Byrd for the stars.

Charleston Auditor Wins Grand Handicap Championship

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA, O. (AP) The roar of 500,000 shotgun shells has died away today and the grand American handicap title, highest award in the trapshooting game is on its way to West Virginia in possession of Lacey H. Wolfe 38-year-old Charleston auditor.

* * *

The dapper marksman from the hill country ignored a heavy wind in the grand finale yesterday to break 98 targets of 100 from the 23-yard line in outshooting 823 of the western hemisphere's top flight scattergun enthusiasts. He was the first West Virginia resident to take the "roaring grand" in 41 years.

* * *

Mrs. Lois Hall of Strausburg, Mo. national women's clay target queen five of the last six years, annexed the 'roaring' end of the laurels with a 99 of 100 from 22 yards adding to a belief that if a woman ever wins the big handicap she'll be the one to do it.

While trapshooters were splitting up some $50,000 in prize money as a result of the week's big barrage, skeet shooting stepped into the center of the stage.

The rival sport, watching the Grand American grow to huge proportions after the American Trapshooting association established its permanent home here in 1923, is planning to settle down in one spot, too instead of shifting its national classic around the country year after year.

* * *

Henry Joy, automobile executive of Detroit, former national skeet champion and one of the game's outstanding figures, met with A. T. A. directors here. He offered a plan under which the skeet group might use the Trapshooting association's grounds for its national event, but was turned down.

* * *

However, Joy said the skeet association was planning its own permanent home, and that Ohio was the favored spot, with special emphasis on this locality.

Yankees Trip Tribe Again; Bees Triumph

Sundra Stops Cleveland, 5-2; Heath Hits Home Run For Tribe.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians called their youthful strikeout king, Bob Feller, to the rescue today against the threatening New York Yankees.

Feller, who faces Atlee Donald in an effort for his 23rd victory and his ninth in a row has snapped the Tribe's losing streaks this year before they became an important mental obstacle.

All season Vitt has insisted New York is the team to beat. As if to show Vitt knows whereof he speaks, the Yankes squeezed out a 5-3 victory over the Tribe yesterday with the benefit of some lucky hits.

That was the defending champions' second triumph in a row over Cleveland and fifth straight against the top two American league teams. It left the Yanks just three games behind the second-place Tigers, who were idle, and only seven astern of the Tribe.

The Indians and Yanks were locked in a tight pitching battle between Al Smith, Cleveland southpaw, and Steve Sundra, Cleveland sandlot product who was sent to the Yankees with Monte Pearson several years ago, as the "clincher" on the deal which brought Johnny Allen into the wigwam.

Two were out in the seventh and the score was 2-2. Babe Dahlgren, with two strikes on him, popped a single over Ray Mack's head into short right. Frank Crosetti caught one on the handle of his bat and looped it into left, near the foul line.

Outfielder Jeff Heath, who clubbed in the first two Cleveland runs with a homer, misjudged the ball and failed to make a shoestring catch, so it went for a double. This put it up to Sundra, who had struck out on each of two previous trips. He brought the deciding runs home by plunking the first pitch over Hal Trosky's head for a single.

News leaked out that Vitt and Heath had a spat in Cleveland last Saturday that led Vitt to threaten suspension of the outfielder.

Heath struck out as a pinch hitter against St. Louis and he and Vitt had words. The Indians' manager settled the next day for an apology after C. C. Slapnicka, club vice president, entered as peacemaker.

The Indians move on to Washington after winding up their three-game series here today. Philadelphia concludes the eastern trip, and the first-placers play at home most of the remainder of the season.

Calvin Dorsett, young right-handed pitcher brought in from Wilkesbarre, Pa., two weeks ago, has been optioned by the Indians to the Oklahoma City club for further seasoning.

NEW YORK—(AP)—All right, let's go. . . . America association experts say Johnny Vander Meer isn't ready to return to the big time. He's winning some games for Indianapolis, but is wilder than one of those Chatham county rabbits down in North Carolina. He scored a shut-out the other night and whiffed ten guys, but walked nine.

Mrs. Sylvia Annenberg Lechner, one of the better known New York golferettes, staged a private tournament for 50 of her friends designed to repay many courtesies extended her during the season. . . . Pitt's Panthers will play all eight games at home this year except those with Duke and Ohio State.

Boston Club Hands Cincy A 7-2 Beating; Thompson To Hurl Today.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds hoped Junior Thompson, who has performed brilliantly on the mound in several tight spots this season, would be able to comb the Bees out of their hair today while they struggled with the offerings of Dick Errickson.

The Reds faced the final encounter of a series with Boston, firmly convinced that the Bees carry a good sized shillalah as well as a sting. The Stengel charges, although in seventh place, have tied the league leaders in the encounters in which they met, each team winning nine games.

The Bees yesterday romped through a 7-2 triumph over the Reds as the Bee sluggers hammered Paul Derringer and Millard Shoffner for 13 hits, including homers by Max West and Chet Ross.

Boston bunched three hits in the first inning to push over a run and then staged a one-man blitzkrieg in the third, West supplying the ammunition with a three-run homer. The Bees tallied twice more on three singles and a double in the sixth, to put the game on ice.

Shoffner limited the Bees to three hits during the last three frames but the Reds couldn't score on the veteran Jim Tobin's flinging. The Reds loaded the bases in the ninth inning but Bill Werber, who pulled a victory out of the fire for the Reds Thursday, popped out to end the game.

* * *

Lee Gamble, who was sent to Birmingham of the Southern league to make room for Outfielder Jimmy Ripple, obtained from Montreal, was an unhappy man when told he had been "sold down the river" but General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Cincinnati baseball club assured the fleet-footed outfielder that he would be well taken care of.

REPAYS POLICE

Dog Saved by Cops Supplies Them With Uniforms.

ZEELAND, Mich. —(AP)— Four years ago the purchase of new uniforms for the city's police force was quite a financial problem.

Since then, however, the police force which consists of Chief Fred Bosma and his associate, Lester DePree annually sport new suits and stripes and all the credit goes to Zippy, a Boston-ed French bulldog.

Abandoned by her owner, Zippy was sentenced to death in the lethal chamber four years ago, but the wagging of her stubby tail won the affection of Bosma and DePree and she has lived at headquarters ever since.

Her title of No. 1 policewoman for the force is well deserved. Each spring she brings a litter of puppies to the station. Some days find a puddle in the corridors in spite of the efforts of the uniformed officers.

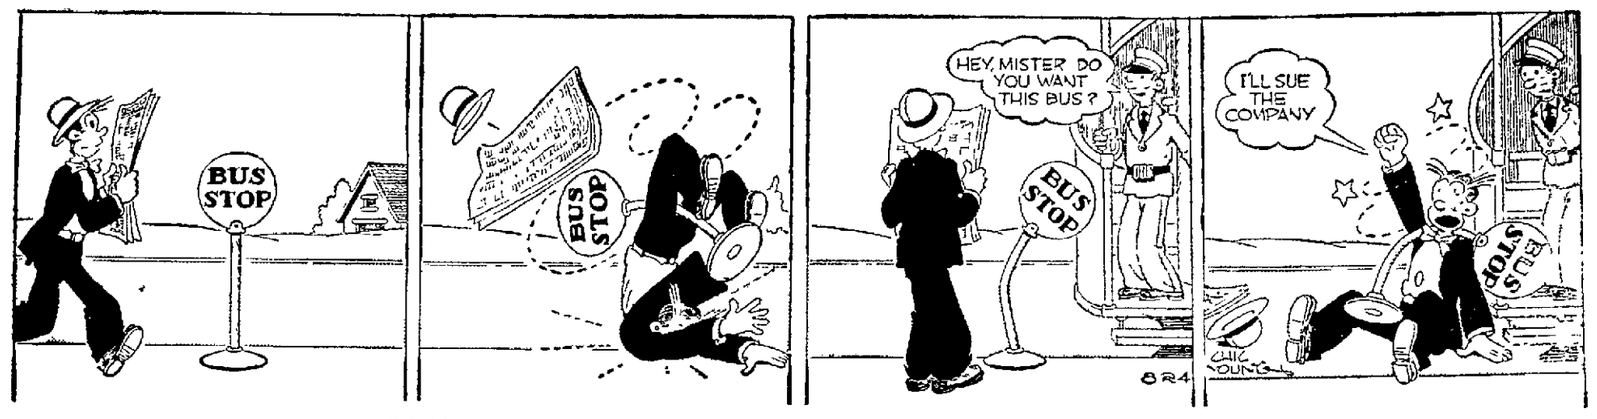
POPEYE— Ask Dad, He Knows!

NOW I KNOW POPEYE IS IN TROUBLE! I CAN FEEL IT IN MY BONES
OTHERWISE, I WOULD HAVE HEARD FROM HIM BY NOW
HE'S BEEN GONE FOR MONTHS
WHY DIDN'T I THINK OF THAT BEFORE?
WHY, SURE, HE'D WRITE TO HIS PAPPY
POOPDECK PAPPY SHOULD HAVE NEWS
POOPDECK, HAVE YOU HEARD FROM YOUR SON, POPEYE? HAS HE WRITTEN TO YOU?
WRITTEN A LETTER, YA MEANS?
WHAT FOR?
I CAN'T READ
BESIDES, I DIDN' KNOWED HE WAS AWAY
WHERE'D HE GO TO THIS TIME?

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— Dream Daddy. By Harold Gray

HE'S BEEN AWAY A LONG TIME, HASN'T HE? BUT I'LL KNOW HIM RIGHT AWAY, WON'T I, GAMMY?
OF COURSE YOU WILL, BILLY--BUT YOU'VE GROWN SO MUCH, I WONDER IF HE'LL KNOW YOU WHEN HE SEES YOU-
YES, I HAVE GROWN UP A LOT, HAVEN'T I, GAMMY? TELL ME AGAIN 'BOUT HOW LITTLE I WAS WHEN HE WENT AWAY-
OH, YOU WEREN'T ANY BIGGER THAN THAT THEN, BILLY--JUST A BABY THEN-
8-24-40
YES--PROBLY HE CAN'T BE 'SPECTED TO KNOW ME, BUT HE'LL COME IN AN' I'LL SAY, "HELLO, POPPY,--THEN HE'LL KNOW ME-
YES, BILLY-AND WON'T HE BE PROUD OF HIS LITTLE MAN!
AND MY POPPY'S AWFUL RICH, ISN'T HE? AND FAMOUS--AND GOOD AND GEN'ROUS, TOO, ISN'T HE? HE'S JUST 'BOUT PERFECT, ISN'T HE, GAMMY?
WELL, JUST 'BOUT, BILLY-HM-M-ONLY NO ONE IS COMPLETELY PERFECT, I'M AFRAID-
HAROLD GRAY

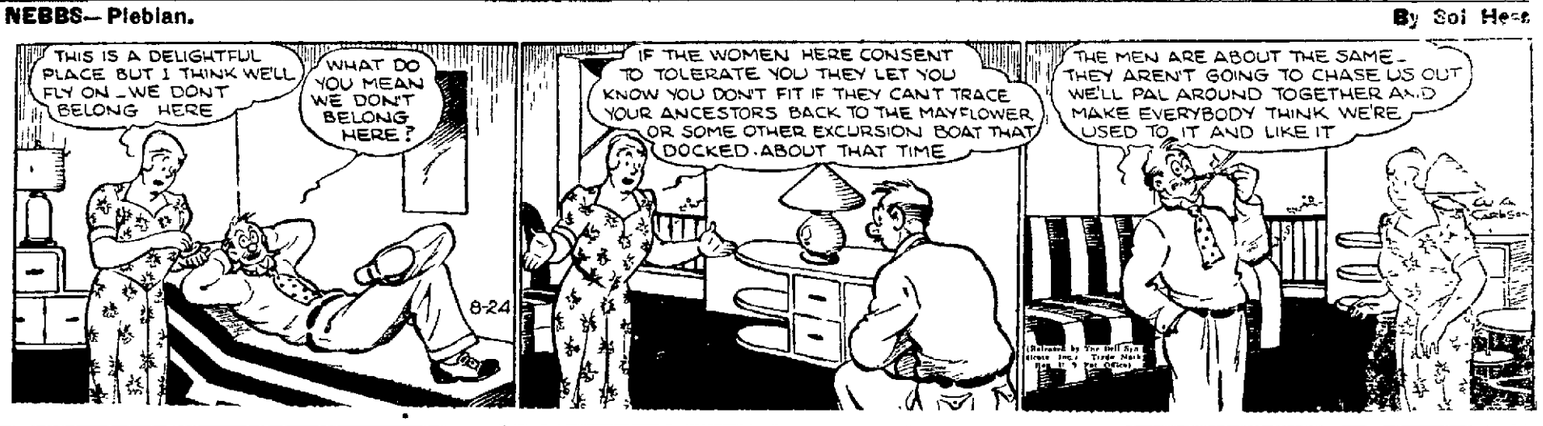
BLONDIE— Is There a Lawyer In the Audience? By Chic Young



PAM— Investigation! By A. W. Brewerton

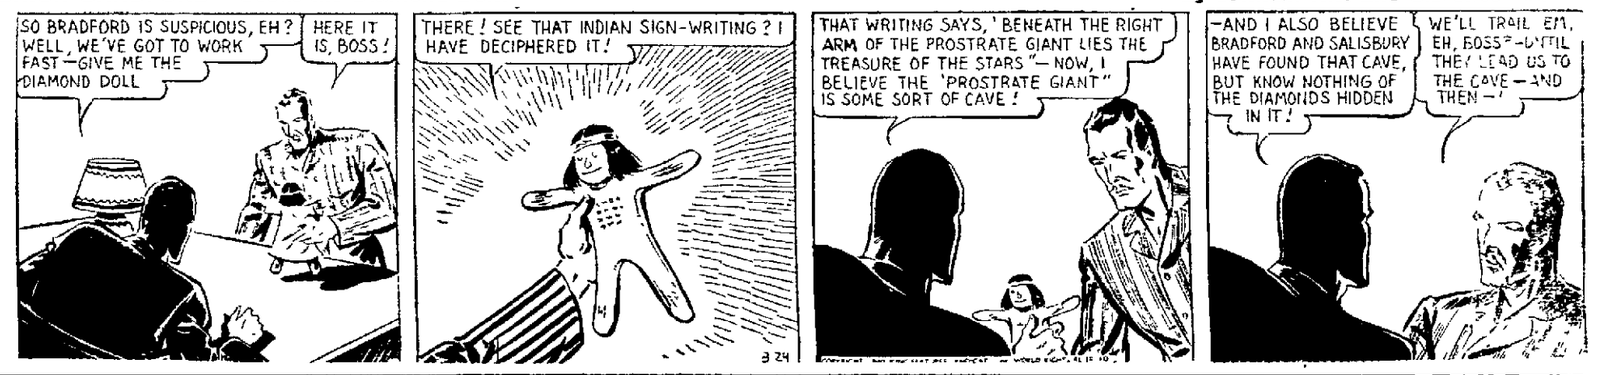
TIME: ABOUT TWO A.M.!
I - I WONDER IF - IF HE'S GONE?
8-24
FOR A LONG TIME PAM LAY PERFECTLY QUIET THEN, AS SHE HEARD NO FURTHER SOUND, SHE SLIPPED OUT OF BED AND INTO A DRESSING GOWN.
QUIT SHAKING, YOU LITTLE COWARD! SURELY HE'S GONE BY NOW
WONDER IF I'D BETTER CALL SOMEONE? WHAT WAS HE AFTER? HERE'S MY WATCH AND PURSE, AND- DON'T SEE A THING MISSING!
SHE HASTILY EXAMINED THE APARTMENT, BUT COULD DETECT NOTHING GONE -THEN, NOTING A CLOSET DOOR AJAR,--
OH! MY OVERNIGHT BAG! I KNOW I PUT IT RIGHT HERE YESTERDAY! IT'S GONE WHY WOULD HE WANT TO TAKE THAT? HOW STRANGE!
THEN, SUDDENLY, A STARTLING THOUGHT CAME TO PAM!

THE NEBBS— Plebian. By Sol Hess



THIS IS A DELIGHTFUL PLACE BUT I THINK WE'LL FLY ON - WE DON'T BELONG HERE
WHAT DO YOU MEAN WE DON'T BELONG HERE?
8-24
IF THE WOMEN HERE CONSENT TO TOLERATE YOU THEY LET YOU KNOW YOU DON'T FIT IF THEY CAN'T TRACE YOUR ANCESTORS BACK TO THE MAYFLOWER OR SOME OTHER EXCURSION BOAT THAT DOCKED ABOUT THAT TIME
THE MEN ARE ABOUT THE SAME- THEY AREN'T GOING TO CHASE US OUT WE'LL PAL AROUND TOGETHER AND MAKE EVERYBODY THINK WE'RE USED TO IT AND LIKE IT

BRICK BRADFORD— Seeks the Diamond Doll. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray



SO BRADFORD IS SUSPICIOUS, EH? WELL, WE'VE GOT TO WORK FAST—GIVE ME THE DIAMOND DOLL
HERE IT IS, BOSS!
THERE! SEE THAT INDIAN SIGN-WRITING? I HAVE DECIPHERED IT!
THAT WRITING SAYS, 'BENEATH THE RIGHT ARM OF THE PROSTRATE GIANT LIES THE TREASURE OF THE STARS"— NOW, I BELIEVE THE 'PROSTRATE GIANT" IS SOME SORT OF CAVE!
-AND I ALSO BELIEVE BRADFORD AND SALISBURY HAVE FOUND THAT CAVE, BUT KNOW NOTHING OF THE DIAMONDS HIDDEN IN IT!
WE'LL TRAIL 'EM, EH, BOSS?-UNTIL THEY LEAD US TO THE CAVE—AND THEN—!

Market Students Derive Some Comfort From Department Of Labor Reports.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks hovered on a narrow ledge in today's market.

Market students derived some comfort from the report of Secretary of Labor Perkins disclosing 130,000 new jobs were created between mid-June and mid-July, raising the number of persons employed to a new peak for 1940.

Noted was the federal reserve survey estimating the country's department store sales for the week ended Aug. 17, were 7 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago.

Attention was given the forecast of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics that cash income for farmers in the current year would exceed that of 1939 by about 5 per cent, making 1940 the second best year since 1930.

EXAMINER LISTS FINDINGS OF $815 IN REPORT

But Indicates No Intentional Misuse of Funds In School Districts.

Fifty-three findings for a total of $815 were returned today in a state examiner's report of an examination of the accounts of Richland county's rural boards of education, but none of the finding represented intentional misuse of school fuds, the report idicated.

Included in the report, however, were unpaid findings for $3,607, returned in the report of a previous examination.

The unpaid holdover findings include $1,600 against D. D. Peterson and the Lucas Equity Exchange for coal purchased illegally by the Lucas school board, $245 in excess compensation paid Judd Clingan, clerk of the Union rural board, and $225 collected by the Farmers Bank of Bellville for depository interest.

Principal findings listed in the new report, covering the period from Nov. 30, 1937 to Dec. 30, 1939, were four for a total of $285 against purchasers of abandoned school buildings in the Butler village district.

The examiner, Charles E. Rafferty, cited the state law which requires boards to advertise buildings valued at more than $300 and to sell them only for cash when the buyers are private individuals.

The Butler findings were against purchasers who bought the buildings on the payment plan. The buyers' have already made good $102 of the findings.

Findings for $52 each were returned against Raymond Steele and Wilson Day at Plymouth for school funds they collected to transport pupils to the state fair in buses. A state ruling prohibits the use of public funds for transporting pupils on pleasure trips.

In the Butler village report, a finding for $65 was returned against the Intercollegiate Press for graduation caps and gowns that firm sold to the school. Such articles are of a personal nature and can't be purchased with school money, the examiner said.

Citing the same ruling, the examiner made a finding for $55 for invitations purchased by the Lucas graduates from the Educational Supply company, and in the Madison township report there was a finding for $36 against Dick Lower for cleaning band uniforms. Cost of the cleaning was taken from school funds illegally, the examiner held.

Of the total $815 in findings, the report listed payments of $191, leaving $674 still due.

Only the Mifflin district escaped without a finding. The Lucas schools almost escaped, with only one for $1.80 in illegal telephone toll tax charged against them. The money was paid to the Lexington branch of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, named in the finding.

Hospital Patient Broadcasts Over His Own Station

FORT WORTH, Tex. —(INS)— C. D. Thompson, a patient at a Fort Worth Sanitorium, calls himself "The Piper's Son" when broadcasting to 75 other patients over a unique private wire system.

A former U. S. Army electrician, he purchased and put together all of the equipment used for transmitting the programs, which may be heard only within the building.

Regular programs include a Sunday morning service by a local Baptist church, a Monday evening program of fiddle band recordings, a Wednesday evening vesper service, a Thursday morning hour of songs, devotional and poems, and a Friday evening selection of popular dance recordings. A WPA orchestra also plays over Station "BRJT" occasionally.

Thompson has a library of more than 500 recordings. In addition to his regular programs, staff and visiting physicians give health talks and unusual happenings at the sanitarium are broadcast.

BOOKS DESCRIBE FINNISH WAR, PRE-WAR CRISIS

Man Who Was There Tells How Finns Fought Against Red Invaders.

With war the most common topic of conversation these days, two volumes dealing with the European situation, both present and immediate past, have been added to the shelves of the Public library.

One is "Finland Fights," written before the end of that one-sided struggle, and the other is "How War Came," dealing with the fast-moving events of 1939 that led to the conflagration.

These are on the non-fiction list, of course. H. B. Elliston, who was on the scene, wrote the Finnish story. Raymond Gram Swing, radio news commentator, compiled "How War Came" from his broadcasts.

Other non-fiction added this week includes: EMPIRE OF THE SEVEN SEAS by James Truslow Adams opens with the defeat of the British in the fight against a Europe in arms, and the loss of the American colonies, and carries on the story of how, instead of being overwhelmed by these blows the British went on and built up a still greater empire. From crisis to crisis, from Napoleon to Hitler, Adams follows the growth of the British empire with which he believes our interests are linked as with no other nation.

THE WANDERING LAKE by Sven Hedin offers escape to the war-weary reader. In 1900, Hedin, explorer of Central Asia, foretold that, soon, the waters of Lop-Nor, a long dry lake of eastern Turkestan, would return to the bed where they had been 1,500 years earlier. In 1928, his prophesy was fulfilled. This book is the story of his explorations of the lake.

Also on the non-fiction list are:

DESIGN THIS DAY, by Teague.

HISTORY OF THE SCANDINAVIAN LITERATURES, by Bach.

STALIN'S RUSSIA, by Eastman.

BRITISH WAR BLUE BOOK.

HANDBOOK OF HEARING AIDS, by Niemoeller.

COMPLETE GUIDE FOR THE DEAFENED, by Niemoeller.

ENGINEER'S MANUAL by Hudson.

IDENTIFICATION OF FIREARMS, by Gunther.

THEY BUILT THE CAPITOL by Frary.

New fiction titles are:

FROST AND FIRE by Elliott Merrick is a story of the Labrador wild, of a boy who lived the hard life of the hunter and fisherman, and the girl he loves, who sought an easier life in the city. Though it tells of hardships and suffering, it is also a story of courage and of happiness.

STAR OF SATAN, by George Bernanos tells of the conflict of a young priest with Satan. The struggle takes place in a village of France in modern times.

LORINDA, by Marjorie Carleton, follows the career of a beautiful, ambitious girl from the slum of a small New England town to fame on the stage, and finally, to an understanding of love.

Others on this list: LATE HARVEST, by White.

HANGMAN'S WHIP, Eberhart.

BEDSIDE BOOK OF FAMOUS BRITISH STORIES, edited by Cerf and Moriarty.

15 SAD TALES

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — Ralph Brown came before the city board of supervisors in quest of a reduction in his property assessment. But he was 15th on the list of applicants, and heard the sad stories of 14 others before his came up. "Gee, there seems to be a lot of people worse off than I am," he reported. "I'm sorry I made my application." The dumbfounded supervisors nevertheless found Brown's contentions worthy enough to lop off $200 of his assessment valuation.
